The living room of the Ankeny home was chosen as the scene of the ceremony, which took place before the large bay windows. Palms and other greenery formed a bower for the service. Asparagus fern was used in the reception hall, being twined about the handles of wicker baskets, which were filled with many different flowers, and forming an aisleway in which the bridal party walked. Many baskets of the different summer flowers were used in the decoration of the other rooms of the Ankeny home, pink being used as the predominating color.

Preceding the ceremony Mr. Nelson Ankeny, brother of the bride, sang two songs, "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" Mrs. Nelson Ankeny accompanied her husband. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Grace Monce upon the entrance of the wedding party into the living room.

By her side walked Master, Edwin Kinderman, a nephew of the bridegroom, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinderman of Detroit, Michigan, as ring bearer.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. Her wedding gown was of white tulle and her veil of tulle, caught with orange blossoms, fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. She wore a diamond brooch, a gift of the bridegroom.

PRESIDENT SIGNS NEW ARMY BILL

Washington, June 30.—President Harding today signed the army appropriation bill decreasing the size of the American army from 220,000 to 150,000 men and in so doing, he transmitted a brief message to both houses of congress expressing the embarrassment which the action causes the administration, at this time.

The president pointed out that it is doubtful if the reduction can be effected without the summary dismissal of thousands of men from the army "who have a right to expect from the hands of the government the same moral obligation which the government requires of them when they enlist for service."

Vivian Cleora Sheely.

Vivian Cleora, little daughter of Walter and Emma Sheeley was born September 13th, 1919, and died June 24th 1921, aged 21 months, 11 days. Only a few short months just as the tender bud of life was opening, God took her away to be an angel for him.

She was sick only a short while from Monday until Friday and bore her pain and little sufferings patiently, and all that tender hearts and loving hands could do, could not keep her with us, and we are made to wonder why our hearts must be saddened by the taking of this little life—yet God in his great goodness doeth all things well.

We will miss her—Oh, how much—but our loss is her gain—and as we bow our heads to her Divine will—beneath it all there is a certain sweetness that draws us closer to the Heavenly Father, strengthening our love for him.

Little Kathryn Newana who passed on before will be waiting for her.

Two little angels now on high. They hand in hand together roam, Two links now bind us to the sky, Two fingers beacon us to come, Lord give us strength our loss to bear And lead us in our Heavenly way. Oh may we meet our children there, In balm of Everlasting Day.

Precious darlings they have left us, Left us, yes forever more. But we hope to meet our loved ones On that bright and happy shore. Lonely the house and sad the hours Since our dear ones gone, But oh a brighter home than ours, In heaven is now their own.

Jane L. Fitzpatrick

Jane L. Fitzpatrick, wife of W. W. Fitzpatrick, was born near Jamestown July 18, 1856, and departed this life at their home near New Jasper, Ohio, Sunday at noon, June 26th, 1921, aged 64 years, 11 months and 8 days. She was the youngest daughter of Joseph and Eliza Snodgrass, and of a family of seven children there is only one surviving, Milo R. Snodgrass of Xenia, Ohio. On February 17th, 1876 she was united in marriage to W. W. Fitzpatrick, and to them were born three children, J. Raymond, W. Foster and L. Merle. J. Raymond, or better known as Professor Fitzpatrick, was removed by death September 29th just nine months ago today. Surviving her are her husband, son Foster, who resides near Jamestown, her daughter Merle at home, who so faithfully cared for her in her last illness, and one granddaughter, Wanda Lucile. The early part of their married life was spent on part of the home place, and in March 1901, they moved to their present home.

Her strong quiet character was manifest in sickness as in health and she had many qualities that fitted her for home, wifehood and motherhood; and her devotion to husband and children was most marked. Her decline in health has been noticed by her family since the death of her son Raymond. Her desire was that her children might be educated and fitted for the responsibilities of life, and she lived to see this accomplished, and to hear Dr. McChesney, President of Cedarville College, and Raymond's personal friend, who conducted his funeral service, speak of him in complimentary terms, of his life when under his supervision. Dr. McChesney reiterated his inability to be present on account of a previous engagement.

Her neighbors and friends say she was kind, loyal and neighborly; her children rise up and call her blessed; this is her eulogy. So passes the life of Jane Snodgrass Fitzpatrick, never to be forgotten.

UNITED STATES HISTORY TO BE STUDIED BY BRITISH UNIVERSITIES.

A London dispatch says that last Monday Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador in Washington, inaugurating the Sir George Watson chair of American history at the Mansion House, declared the United States Constitution "the greatest single contribution made to Government as an applied science."

Englishmen, Viscount Bryce asserted, studied American history too little, and he hoped the Watson Foundation would bear abundant fruit in a better understanding between the two peoples.

Discussing the relative merits of the British and American systems of government, and the failure of the United States Constitution to settle the slavery question without civil war, Viscount Bryce said:

"The British parliamentary system has for more than eighty years failed to settle a question less formidable, but always threatening strife and deranging the proper working of its own machinery, that of securing peace and goodwill in Ireland."

The establishment of the Watson chair is said to be the first serious attempt to teach American history in England aside from the course begun in Oxford University a year ago. The movement, an outgrowth of the work of the Anglo-American Society, is spreading and the English are taking a new interest in American institutions and problems. The Watson chair will not be attached to any university, but lectures will be delivered in the various colleges.

THE WONDERS OF THE "WIRELESS" GROWING GREATER ALL THE TIME.

German wireless experts expect soon to be able to ring up New York from Berlin by wireless telephone, having already successfully bridged more than 2700 miles, equal to the airline distance from Berlin to Newfoundland.

The experiments were conducted by the Argentine steamship Bahia Blanca on a trip from Hamburg to Buenos Aires. Communications were maintained from the departure form Hamburg, first through the ten-kilowatt station at Koenigswusterhausen, whose messages were heard until the steamship was 2200 miles out. The giant Nauen station, with a 130-kilowatt sender, then took up the task and was able to reach the steamship 500 miles more, until the Bahia Blanca entered a region where atmospheric disturbances regularly interfere with wireless transmission.

The messages were heard with absolute distinctness at European land stations, ranging from Bucharest and Madrid to Stockholm and Christiania, though these were not provided with the recently devised amplifying receiver.

Beautiful, you reply, but—does it work?

Consider this fact.

In Belfast there is an active Rotary Club. So also in Dublin. Deep and harsh are the divisions which separate these cities. But the two clubs are in the friendliest intercourse. They visit one another. They pull together. Rotary in its own measure has broken down the estrangement of generations. If it works in Ireland, where can it fail?

The Rotarian enters into genuine, wholesome good-fellowship through the circle of his club. He receives enlightenment as to other men's work, their problems and successes. He is stimulated in his desire to be of service—that is the "slogan" of Rotary—in his city and country. He becomes a better business man and a finer citizen.

So, hail to the Rotary-comers from across the seas!

FIGHTING THE COAL LOBBY.

There is no reason to doubt the substantial accuracy of Senator Frelinghuysen's description of the coal lobby that is fighting all attempts to bring the coal trade into some sort of supervisory control as one of the most formidable that has ever undertaken to influence the course of Federal legislation. And it might be added that it is deservedly one of the most unpopular, because it is seeking to prevent that publicity which ought to attend industrial operations so vital to the welfare of the people, and because it is antagonistic to the universal desire of the people to secure one of the most vital necessities of life and industry at a fair and reasonable price.

In spite of the violence and extravagance of the denunciations of the legislation that is pending in the senate, there does not seem to be anything very radical or dangerous in the proposal that the coal trade shall submit to complete publicity as to their product, its cost from the mine to the bins of the consumer. If the so-called "coal barons" are receiving so small a return on their investment, if they are the unselfish, disinterested and altruistic benefactors of the nation some of them would like us to believe, they ought to be more than willing to have the facts demonstrated by official statistics, gathered by impartial investigators acting in the public interest. If, on the other hand, they are the cold-blooded extortionists so many people believe them to be, the very vehemence of their opposition to publicity is easily accounted for.

Most consumers of coal, hard or soft, will not be much impressed by the contention of the coal lobby that the Frelinghuysen measure is a long step toward Government ownership of the mines. There is far greater danger of the Nation being driven to that extreme through the refusal of the coal men to put all their cards on the table and offer convincing proofs that the prices they demand for coal are just and right, the inevitable consequences of economic conditions beyond human control. In fighting publicity the coal lobby stands in a false position before the public and no amount of disclaimers will change the deep-rooted suspicion in the public mind that they don't want the truth and the whole truth to be spread before the public by a disinterested and impartial authority.—Public Ledger.

DRYING THE CLOTHES UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Messrs. Frank Keyes and Ford McClung employed at the powder works at Aetna, Ill., arrived this morning, and will spend a couple weeks vacation at their home in this city. "Pete" and Ford are both pleased with their positions.

A little daughter of Rudolph Rinck, the tailor, while picking cherries at the home of her grandmother, on the Cincinnati pike, fell from the tree and fractured the bone of her arm.

A plan is being considered for improving the condition of South Detroit street, beneath the overhead bridge. The road at that point was made considerably lower in order to get the O. S. and S. O. Home Rapid Transit Car through. It will probably be paved and a system of drainage put on so that the surplus water will be carried off.

The auction sale of lots on Orient Hill, Saturday, was greatly interfered with by the heat, and had to be postponed until another time. Only two lots were sold, these being in the vicinity of $200 each.

We understand that John P. Martin, and his associates have secured a complete and desirable right of way from Wilmington, to Xenia, with the least kicking and grumbling, making the transaction the freest right of way ever secured by the company.

STAGE MIDSUMMER SKIING NORTHWEST

Seattle, Wash.—Skiing in the summer? It can't be done, says the sophisticated Easterner and Southerner. But Pacific Northwesterners know better. They stage a ski tournament every summer and have plenty of good white snow on which to pull off spectacular stunts, that make the crowds "O!" and "Ah!" as the performers go sailing through the air, 80 to 90 feet.

Ski jumpers throughout the Northwest Canada and even the Middle West are preparing to enter the fifth annual midsummer tournament at Paradise Valley, 5,557 feet above sea level, in Rainier National Park, on the slopes of Mount Rainier. The date of the tourney this summer is July 2.

Men and women who took honors in meets held in previous seasons have announced their intention of and, in addition, Canadian ski experts will enter the coming tournament competing in these events. Others from Norway and Sweden also are expected this summer. The tournament is under the direction of the Northwest Ski Club.

Last year hundreds of persons went to Paradise Inn and from there viewed the ski jumping. Other crowds lined one side of the course, which was marked off on Alta Vista Knoll, near the inn. The tourney this season will be held over the same course.

Icy Snow Good for Landing
The warm weather last year made the course sticky and the going rather heavy, so that no new records were set up. However, L. Larson, a sturdy son of Norway, who now lives at Aberdeen, Wash., leaped away with high honors by a jump of ninety feet. He also won the honorary prize for style and length of leaping and an extra prize of a silver trophy, which must be won two years in succession to become the property of the winner. This is one reason for the intense interest in the tournament this season. Larsen must win the cup again and will make every effort to take the trophy home with him for permanent keeping. This trophy is given for the best all-around man in the tournament.

Leaps do not count unless the contestants retain their footing and many of the jumpers have difficulty maintaining an upright position after the leap. Icy, smooth snow is ideal for good jumping, but wet snow causes so much friction when the jumper lands that it is liable to throw him off his balance.

Preparations have been made to handle even larger crowds at Paradise Valley this summer than ever before, and it is assured that a large entry list of jumpers will be on hand.

AN EDITORIAL ON BUYING

Unlike owls and one or two other examples of animal life, human beings see better in the daylight than they do in the dark.

Yet, it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: now more than ever before, we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value.

We ought to be co-operating with all of the business and economic forces which have been started to make one dollar equal one hundred cents in buying power. Yet lots and lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut tight.

And yet it is so easy to be sure you are spending wisely.

The means of knowing how is in your hands. It is in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Spend a few minutes now and every day in running through the advertisements printed here. Then buy the products that have proved up under the spotlight of consistent publicity.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise invite the inspection of thousands of eyes.

Here in the advertising columns you see products that have made good before the critical audience of buyers. These products are full value products. They return you dollar for dollar.

The horse trading proclivities of the shrewd old David Hiram have lost caste. They prove too costly to the perpetrator.

It used to be considered good business to trade a horse with the heavens for one that was sound in wind and limb. But business-to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and manufacturer has so long a list of patrons—that it would be fatal to acquire a reputation of "slipping something over." The basis of modern business is honesty. Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You know what to expect and what to pay. You don't have to bargain, and dicker, to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That is why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness, or of its definite quality.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time, read the advertisements. In them you will find much to save you money, time and energy.

Whether you want food, clothing, furniture or a toy for the children, the advertisements can help you. Read the advertisements therefore, and buy the advertised products.

Then you can know you're spending your money wisely.

TIMES IMPROVE.

The hammer rings throughout the land, they're building shacks on every hand, and normalcy returns; the honest workman sheds his coat and builds a hencoop or a boat, and blows in what he earns. The war is over, and at last we're cutting out the grisly past, of which we talked so long; the present is a bully time for buying lumber, lath and lime, and we are going strong. The Problems we were wont to ride now have a rest, we let them slide, until the Harvest Home; and now we spend our afternoons in planting peas and stringless prunes, and digging up the loam. The loafers do not throng the street, emerging from their dark retreat in alley or in court, and in my jaunts I do not rub against the Spit and Argue Club, which used to hold the fort. The signs and tokens everywhere a better state of things declare, and men are growing sane; less foolish clamors do they raise and they forsake the doty ways that gave the gods a pain. There are discordant notes, I know, and there are strains of strife and woe, by which the world is bored; but through the wail of grief and wrong you hear the grand triumphant song of industry restored.

THE CHILD'S HAIR

The health and beauty of a grown person's hair depends so much upon its care during the first dozen years of life that I should say it was more important for the hair to be taken care of during that period than any other time. Children may inherit a tendency toward thin and weak hair, or toward dandruff and premature greyness, but these tendencies can be overcome or, at least, greatly lessened by the care of the scalp during childhood.

One of the first things that happens to a new-born baby is that its scalp is covered with vaseline; this is merely part of the nurse's duties and is never neglected. But not very many nurses or mother's remember to rub the baby's scalp with a little olive oil during first six or seven months of its life. If the scalp is dry this should be done every day; if not, every few days. It stimulates the growth of the hair.

If a child's hair is thin it should be kept short as long as possible. In any case it is a good thing to keep children's hair short since it is less trouble for both child and mother and since clipping is good for the hair. Children, rightly, go bareheaded most of the time; it is good for their hair except when the weather is too cool or the mid-summer sun is too hot.

Ordinarily once every two weeks is the proper time to shampoo the child's hair. The scalp must be kept clean and children do not protect their heads from the dust and dirt of the atmosphere as grown-ups do. The best shampoo is castile or tar soap, never any fancy shampoo concoction. A little massage of the scalp with the finger tips is a good thing.

Unknown.—This space is not sufficient for me to go into all the details as to how a person may become stout and also well developed. Send an addressed stamped envelope and I shall be pleased to discuss the subject with you.

Anxious—Exercise will develop the muscles of the legs when they are too thin, while it will also reduce very stout ones by absorbing the fat.

A. B. C.—Bleaching freckles is not satisfactory as the freckles come from iron, which is in the blood and the sun brings it to the surface in the form of these little spots. They are not really as disfiguring as some people think, as the skin that freckles is usually very clear and pink. Health and freckles are so frequently associated, that a moderate number of freckles may easily be an asset to some people. Cucumber or strawberry juice will bleach them moderately, if the lemon juice is irritating.

SECOND PLANTING WILL BE MADE

According to the reports of gardeners and plant producers there will be an extraordinary amount of late garden truck produced this fall.

Rain has been so frequent that gardeners, both the amateur and professional, have hit upon the plan of starting late crops of such things as cabbage and tomatoes and are setting many plants.

The growth of all garden produce has been greatly hastened by the incessant rain.

What Paris Is Wearing

The newest Paris skirts are ankle length and quite full. Hem lines are still uneven.

White kid or buckskin low shoes are the only proper ones to wear with pale organdie dresses. Some of the smartest models are frequently decorated with pipings of black patent leather. Double strap fastening is the most popular this season.

Exceedingly smart the wide scarfs of moire or taffeta ribbon trimmed with long silk fringes. These scarfs may today be used as a belt on a light Summer dress, yet tomorrow will serve as a sole garniture on a large floppy garden hat.

Huge organdie flowers placed at the proper angle will transform a very simple but well-cut frock into a thing of beauty. The Summer silk tailcoats are divided into two classes—those with exceedingly short loose box coats and those with coats reaching way down to the very hem of the skirt. All the skirts are simple with but a very little fullness at the sides. White linen bordered with strips of color makes delightful Summer suits. Pongee is very popular. A charming combination consists of a "mélange" of jade green, and citron pongee. Poulard also makes a number of very effective Summer suits.

In this season of utter simplicity deep folds of the material are often the only trimming allowed—and, by the way, they are very smart. A charming organdie dress thus fashioned, the waist and skirt each trimmed with three horizontal folds.

The square neck fastens at the back with tiny organdie buttons. A wide sash of the material ties at the side front and its hanging ends are edged with a tiny ruffle of Valenciennes lace.

The petal frocks which have been so favored this past Winter are again worn this summer, but French voile replaces chiffon and crepe de chine.

The Florentine neck line is seen on almost every dressy afternoon gown.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

The City Park Bench

The other day I took my camera and walked through a nearby park. I took some pictures of benches filled with men and women—while happy children played on the grass about them.

One striking reproduction is before me as I write.

At the near end is a man buried in a newspaper. His shoes are worn and very old. There is eagerness in his eyes as he scans the columns. I note that he is reading the Want-Ad section.

Next to him is a man about 40 years of age. He has no collar on. His socks are trying to meet his toes. His clothes are ill-kept. There is a marked dejection about his entire face, and there are lines about his mouth that would easily say: "Oh, what's the use?"

To the right of this man is a couple. They are holding hands. Neither of them will ever play in their "thirties" again. They are fairly well dressed. But there is something about the expression of each that would give one the impression that life has some little distance to go—and that not too unhappily either.

Following this couple is a colored girl with her hands folded, looking at an angle of 45 degrees ahead. Evidently this is her afternoon "off." Next to this colored girl is a young white pair. A book is on the lap of the girl. The young man has his hand against his face—as though in the attitude of thinking. Both are well dressed. There is considerable antipathy floating about the countenances of both.

Now we come to the single figure of a man about 25 years of age. He has his legs crossed. His clothes look neat and in style. His fingers are interlocked rather stubbornly. There is a deeply marked picture of envy, of boastfulness, of don't care-ness in his face. He looks strong in body, but you wouldn't want to trust him, far.

And so the line goes on. Another colored woman in middle age. A woman with a child in her arms. Another man reading a newspaper. A most pleasant woman with a smile on her face. A boy with his cap on the back of his head, smoking a cigarette. A man with a long beard, chewing something. A bootblack shining the shoes of one who looks very much "down and out."

A city park bench—a page from life!

Dinner Stories

"I hear you've been back on a visit to the old cow country. It must seem rather tame out there."

"Since civilization set in," "I am! Say, the way the boys out there dash around the country in their flyovers makes a bucking broncho look like a rocking horse."

A story is told of the late Samuel Spencer. The trains of his railroad were frequently late. He resented to correct the service. As the train to which his special car was attached one day drew into its terminal he looked at his watch. It registered exactly noon—the time of scheduled arrival.

"I'm sent for the engineer," "My friend," the great railway executive said, hearing, "do you know what you have done? You have broken the record. You have arrived on time. My congratulations; also, here is $10."

The engineer reached for the money, fumbled it, then sadly handed it back. "I am sorry to have to tell you, Mr. Spencer," he said, "but I cannot take your present. For the truth is this: yesterday's train cannot be on yesterday's train. Today has to be... time."

"One minute late" is just one minute too late to keep a man's breast of the procession.

"A friend of mine" wrote a note to the woman editor of a magazine, asking for his heart and hand.

"Dislike accepted?" "No," she replied briefly, "the rejection of his offer did not imply a lack of merit."

"Why were all the nations fighting, papa?" "To make the world safe for democracy, my son."

"If the world's safe for democracy now, papa?"

"It will be, when we have peace."

"When will we have peace, papa?"

"When the world is safe for democracy."

"Will the nations always fight to have peace, papa?"

"Yes, always, my son."

Old Robinson was inspecting his son's "personal account" for last college term. "What do you mean by forty dollars for tennis?" "Oh, that's for a couple of racket-ies I had to have," replied the son. "Yes, I understand that, but I think we need to call them bats."

The editor of the Barber County (Kansas) Index recently received the following letter from a subscriber:

Please stop the paper.

It is a good paper. I like it and so does the old woman and the kids.

We don't like no other paper so good as the Index, but we are taking a lot of them that ain't no worse than the Index. Well, stop some of them maybe and then take the Index.

We don't know what we would do without the Index. It's a good paper.

Please stop the paper.

"Who'll write my family history?"

"Hiram, of course! He's taken out any number of life insurance policies."

GEORGES TO ATTEMPT TO BOX DEMPSEY AT LONG RANGE JULY 2

New York, June 28.—I dropped in on Georges Carpentier at Manhasset about 8 o'clock the other evening. I expected to find the challenger sitting on the veranda or the lawn. He was not in sight.

Presently he came up to the house from the big barn in which he does his gymnasium work. He was flushed and perspiring.

"Ah, Georges," I remarked, "you are putting in some good licks when no one is around?" You are working as you expect to work when you get into the ring with Dempsey next Saturday?"

Carpentier laughed, winked and said pleasantly:

"You are right, Mr. Corbett. I have just been going through some work that I considered very important. I did not get an opportunity to do it earlier in the day. There were too many around."

"You see I am so earnest about this fight. I am really training quite hard. To win means everything to me, more by far than the money, though of course that is a great incentive. But to be champion of the world! That has been my dream for years. I will leave nothing undone to bring about its realization."

Believe me Georges is serious. He has reasoned out his chances from every angle and the result he obtained has convinced him that they are good.

COURT NEWS

Sues for Partition of Estate
Sarah B. Holland is plaintiff in a partition suit filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Wednesday, naming as defendants Jephtha Griffin, William H. Griffin, Charles A. Griffin, Eudora Childs, Chester Broady, a minor over 14 years of age, Cora Griffin, a minor over the age, Cora Griffin and Charles Griffin, a minor over the age of M. Griffin; 15 per cent to Eva Holland of Bessie Griffin, (now Gee).

The petition states the plaintiff is a daughter and heir-at-law of John G. Griffin, deceased and has a right to an undivided seven-twentieths of two tracts of real estate, one consisting of 2 1/4 acres and one of 2 40-100 acres, both along Massies Creek. The petition states John G. Griffin died September 6, 1900, leaving the property to his wife, Judith Griffith, during her natural life, and at her death to be divided as follows: 30 per cent to Samuel B. Holland; 32 per cent to Jephtha Griffin; 25 per cent to Jas. M. Griffin; 15 per cent to Eva Holland. Eva Holland died before John G. Griffin and her share passed to the heirs of John G. Griffin.

Judith Griffin died September 5, 1907. Jephtha Griffin, according to the petition, has a right to seven-twentieths; William H. and Chas. A. Griffin and Eudora Childs, are entitled to three-fiftieths as the heirs of James M. Griffin, son of John G. Griffin. Chester Broady is entitled to three-fiftieths as the heir of Eugene Broady, daughter of James M. Griffin; Cora and Florence Griffin are entitled to three-one hundredths subject to the dower interest of Bessie Griffin (now Gee) as heirs of Theodore Griffin, a son of James M. Griffin, and Bessie Griffin, has a dower interest of three-fiftieths. The petition was filed by Attorney L. T. Marshall.

Wants Damage for Auto Wreck
The J. A. Lang Company, entered suit in Common Pleas Court, Wednesday, against Leslie Grove, asking $151.50 alleged due for damages received to the plaintiff's Ford touring car when struck by a Stutz touring car on the Dayton pike, May 28.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, charges that the company Ford was being driven by E. W. Notts, who was exercising care, was giving more than two-thirds of the road, had his lights lit and dimmed. The petition further avers that the defendant was driving at a reckless rate of speed and running from one side of the road to the other, being negligent in running into the plaintiff's machine which was damaged to the extent of the damages asked.

Seeks Divorce after 24 Years

After being wedded for 24 years Cora Judy, through her attorney filed a suit asking for divorce from Loe Judy, with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Wednesday. The petition charges gross neglect of duty, that they are living apart now and that the defendant has threatened the plaintiff. The couple was married in Covington, Ky., August 5, 1897 and there are no children. The plaintiff wants an injunction restraining the defendant from annoying her, complete divorce, and restoration to her maiden name of Whitten.

Is Granted Divorce
Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy, Wednesday, granted Lena M. Haynes, a divorce from M. T. Haynes and restored her to her maiden name of Lena LaMar.

Church Organizations Benefit

DECISION AND DETAILS

There is no doubt in my mind that a man who enters the game of golf will be much better off, stand better in tournaments and match play, if he is thoroughly conversant with the regulations. Of course, we have all seen the self-constituted authority on rules who is a frequent nuisance and I don't mean for my readers to acquire that sort of disposition, but know the rules so your own game will be right at least. After all golf rules, narrow down to what is right and what is wrong. I always make it my habit never to call a hole on an opponent or to accuse another of violating any rules I play to win actual strokes. Otherwise I prefer to lose for there is no thrill in winning a technical success. I try always to follow strictly the rules of the game and I expect my opponent to maintain the same standard. But if it is my misfortune to play against a man who infringes the rules—who, in blunt language is a cheater—I try to follow the old biblical injunction and turn the other cheek. A cheater will eventually rule himself off any course.

During my experience of more than a decade of tourney I have witnessed many cases which illustrate the importance of the rules and the effect of the referee's decision during critical moments.

I once played at a big event in the East when the referee hooked the last hole. One of them hooked his shot to the boundary line. It was a debatable question, but the referee in this instance called it out and his decision lost the match for that player. I personally examined the play carefully and had I been referee I would have ruled the ball in. Golf history would have been made had the referee's decision been otherwise.

Another interesting case was the match between Travers and Warren Wood in a National Championship. An incident occurred there which made a decided difference in the outcome of the match although the act seemed small at the time. Travers sliced his ball into some ground that was being repaired. Under the rules Travers should have dropped out behind the grounds but instead he dropped it to one side. In this particular case there was a decided difference. And Travers won the match by a single hole. I have said above that I never question an opponent's play, but I am not sure that this is always a wise policy. In fact I think it is not safe to be too obliging in an important match.

For example in the final round of the National Championship, played at Garden City, I met J. G. Anderson. At a certain hole there was a question as to who was away. As the official was not at hand I told my caddy to measure the distance. In doing this he accidentally moved Anderson's ball. As a result I lost a hole that up to that time seemed clearly mine. On another occasion during a decisive part of my match with Travers in Chicago in 1912 (I cite these old cases rather than more modern ones because time has mellowed my viewpoint on them) the question of distance from the hole arose. My eye is well trained in judging such matters and I was certain that I was away, and, therefore, entitled to play first. But Travers, stepped promptly up to his ball saying "I guess I am away," and he played. That small thing might have made a big difference for by playing first Travers was in the position either of holing out and getting the psychological advantage of that fact, or having his ball stop in a position to stymie me.

So I say to my readers, know the rules and play your games according to them strictly. Expect the same standard of your opponent and if your match is of importance guard against being too accommodating as you are under no obligations to go out of your way even in small matters—which may have big results.

ONE OF THE LETTERS RECEIVED DURING THE CONTEST:

"In dealing with the Kennedy Groceries in the last three and one-half years, I have been especially pleased by the SERVICE, QUALITY and CLEANLINESS of these stores.

Then, again, the ORDER in which the groceries are displayed, which helps us in planning our daily menu.

The QUALITY can be relied upon as they are all well known brands and nothing but the best is bought.

The white interior of the stores, spells CLEANLINESS it self, which is one of the most important features.

No one can help but be pleased by the courteous treatment of the employees of these stores, who are all well versed in the line of goods which they are selling.

Mr. Kennedy, the manager, of the two stores has succeeded because he is working for the interest of the public and everything that the public demands has been put into these stores."

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE NERVOUS AS DAY OF FIGHT DRAWS NEAR

By JAMES J. CORBETT

New York, June 30.—With the big fight only two days off everybody is fidgety. One can feel that nervous, ominous calm before the storm.

Dempsey and Carpenter are bundles of nerves today. You can bet your life on that. They would not be two of the world's greatest boxers if they were nerveless creatures.

For this reason I have considered all along that the big fight may be over in one punch and that either man may win it. Nervous energy will drive both Dempsey and Carpenter hard during the first round and those who see the contest are very liable to see the fustiest fight ever staged by heavyweights. It certainly has the earmarks of such a fight.

If the fight should end in a round or so condition will not count for or against either fighter but if it should be strung out and prove fast and furious, the physical angle will be a big factor.

To be frank I did not like Dempsey's habit of knocking out his sparring partners every day. It looked to me as though the big fellow figured that was the quickest way to dispose of them and avoid going so much boxing. If such was the case he was in dire danger of going stale.

I think, however, he is all right now and from reports he will be in fine fettle Saturday.

I got an angle on the sort of fight Carpenter will probably start to put up in the first round from a friend who saw the Frenchman in private. I am told he has spent practically all his training period this week in defensive sparring and footwork with both imaginary and real sparring partners working with him. To my notion this is exactly what he should do if he expects Dempsey to make a rushing affair.

Styles BY LENORE

Many full-skirted taffeta dance frocks, with semi-fitted plain bodices, have been featured this week. Sometimes the skirt opens over a lace or pleated chiffon petticoat, but whatever the design, the effect aimed at is that of simplicity and demure charm. In a Fifth Avenue shop window saw the attractive frock in the sketch, which illustrates this idea.

The bodice is entirely plain in front with a straight across, slightly dipped neck finished with four rows of fine cording, and cap sleeves formed by the tiny cape shown on the back of the bodice. The color scheme is charming the rose of the material being intensified by the trimming of red flowers—small flat roses, set on a strip of ecru lace, which helps to blend the two colors.

PATTERN NO. 198
A pattern for the above model (No. 198) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 40 by sending to Lenore, 8 West 40th Street, New York City, your name, address, the number of this pattern and the size required and 25 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks' time.—The Editor.

Mrs. Ireland Permits us to Publish this Letter for the Benefit of Others Who Are in Her Condition

Warsaw, Missouri.—“For five years I was weakly, nervous and in a run-down condition. Then I had a nervous breakdown and doctors said I would never be well again. After I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was healthier, stronger, and felt better than I ever did in my life before. I can't praise the Compound enough and will recommend it to all women. You may publish this letter if you think it will help others.”—Mrs. FLOYD IRELAND, R. R. 1, Warsaw, Missouri.

Nervous women are both ailing and wretched, and with a nervous breakdown all joy goes out of a woman's life. It is said that the ill peculiar to women act on the nerves like a firebrand.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming such conditions, a large number of American women who were once great sufferers from nerve troubles owe their present health and comfort to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Health Talks By John B. Huber, AMMD

ASIATIC CHOLERA
Cholera exists pretty much all the time in India, especially in the Delta of the Ganges, where the Mohammedan faithful are prone to bathe in that 'sacred river'. At intervals it becomes epidemic in various localities, in Southern China, in the Philippines and other oriental regions. For many years it has been a pretty regular Spring visitor in Russia, where it is called by the peasantry the Asiatic Guest. Its germ is the cholera vibrio and like typhoid fever, it is an ingestion infection, contracted only by taking in contaminated food and drink.

Here are the sanitary precautions that should be used during an epidemic: All persons effected, and their attendants, are isolated; strict quarantine of infected districts and houses is observed; all accumulations of filth and excreta are destroyed and removed; the bodies of those who have died of Asiatic cholera are cremated; water supplies are guarded to prevent further contamination; all the drinking water is boiled before it is used; and the patient is protected from flies by means of screens.

NERVES WILL PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN BIG BOUT SATURDAY

BY TAD.

New York, June 30.—Just before a big battle the bravest, biggest and most talented boxer is liable to have a seam of nerves that will set him down as weak as a cat. It is the few days before the big muss that get the fighter. Not only fighters but actors, orators, lovers or any of us. How many actors do you know who have flopped at the big moment?

The writer was on the stage with George Cohan one night when he was called upon for an encore and he actually forgot the lines of "Give My Regards to Broadway."

Was there ever a bigger collapse than the one pulled by Jim Jeffries at Reno. Poor Jeff's nerves went to pieces the day before that fight. He walked the floor instead of sleeping the night before wondering if daylight would ever come. Jeff was never accused of cowardice in the ring. In fact he was one of the gamest warriors the glove sentry knew, yet his nerves left him flat.

The night before the big Toledo fust Jess Willard was awake half the time. Walt Monahan who slept in the same house with Jess heard the big fellow go down stairs at 3 a. m. to turn out a small gas jet that was burning. It seemed to bother Jess. He thought he smelled something burning. Afraid of his life he got up and put it out.

Earlier that evening the big fellow sat in the Arena with Tex Rickard talking over future plans. He was just ragged with nerves.

Jack Dempsey himself is no marble statue for nerves. They get him too. The night before he boxed Brennan he went into the bathroom to wash his hands. He carefully reached up, turned on an extra light, thinking it was the faucet, and then proceeded to wash his hands with air. He yelled to Teddy Hayes, telling him the water was turned off. His mind was on Brennan too much.

John L. Sullivan, you know usually licked his man with a few glaring looks. All John ever wanted as an edge was a good face to face look at a bloke.

The night he met Jim Corbett, however, he was stumped. Corbett, knowing his tricks hopped into the ring wearing a straw hat. He bowed and audience, paying no more attention to yelled to imaginary guys in the Sullivan than if the latter had been a dummy. This proceeding got Sullivan's naany.

Sullivan was wild, just what Corbett wanted. Watch for some goat getters Saturday. They're coming, sure.

WOMAN NAMED ON COMMITTEE IS FIRST TO GET POSITION

For the first time in history, a woman has been appointed to membership on the Greene County Soldiers' Relief Committee.

When Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy recently appointed the committee for the coming year, he named Mrs. C. W. Linkhart to position on the board, she being the first woman to ever receive such an appointment.

The other members of the committee are John Hedges of this city and E. J. Williamson, of Beaver-

Efficient Housekeeping

Everybody's Baby—Mahogany

"I declare," said a young mother. "I spend as much time on my old mahogany furniture as I do on the baby."

This statement is three-quarters true. Well-kept mahogany does require an astonishing amount of care. But to a lover of mahogany this trouble is well worth taking.

The delicate, satiny surface on a fine old piece of mahogany is obtained only by constant rubbing. There is no bottled furniture polish that can do the work alone; elbow "grease" is the best polish.

To begin with, mahogany must be kept clean. I know of housewives who try to polish their mahogany when it is dirty! They would not start to polish a dirty floor yet they do not hesitate to do this with a rare old piece of furniture. Perhaps they do not realize that some of the dust deposits adhere to their furniture—no matter how well or how frequently a piece is dusted—and that the furniture should be cleaned every two or three months as well as polished.

If your piece of mahogany has been cleaned recently, all you need do to clean it again is to wipe it with a damp cloth and then rub it well with a clean flannel, taking care to rub with the grain of the wood. Then proceed to polish.

If, however, your piece of mahogany hasn't been washed clean in many a day, then you must give it a more thorough cleansing: Dip a soft, dry cloth into paraffine oil and go over the wood with this, making the surface quite wet; then go over the wood at once with a woolen cloth dipped in strong soap suds and use a good deal of pressure as you wash the wood; wipe it quite dry before polishing.

Now that we have cleaned the mahogany piece, we can think of polishing it. The first step is to put 1 pint of paraffine oil and 1-2 pint of turpentine into a bottle and shake well. Then go over the cleaned wood with a soft cloth wet with this mixture. Let it stand on the mahogany a while before beginning to rub. Then take a dry, clean cloth of either cotton or line and rub briskly—again with the grain of the wood. Keep the oil and turpentine polish corked in your bottle and apply it as I have directed, whenever the furniture begins to look dull and faded. Don't be afraid of rubbing it too much with that dry cotton or linen cloth after applying this polish! Remember, its rubbing that produces the satiny lustre which says so plainly to the mahogany connoisseur: "I am well-kept mahogany. If you can't afford to give time to this rubbing, you really ought not to have mahogany furniture. Filmy mahogany is not beautiful and is even painful to those who love, and understand the care of mahogany."

Next week I shall take up the subject of caring for stained, scratched and dented mahogany. Watch for this article, which will appear on July 7. Mahogany pieces, like books, become more than merely possessions; they become our friends—our beloved life companions. And let a scratch, dent or stain go unrepaid is to slight a friend.

Tomorrow—Requested Recipes.

SAYS DEALERS' TAGS ARE BEING ABUSED

Columbus, June 30.—Secretary of State Smith has asked auto dealers to furnish him with names of persons authorized to drive their demonstration cars and on what kind and make of cars they are using their duplicate dealers license tags.

"We have had a great deal of complaint recently by reason of the fact that some dealers and other alleged dealers, are abusing the duplicate tag privilege by allowing dealers' duplicates to be used on cars that are not held by such dealer or other like disposition," says Smith in a letter to all dealers.

"The attorney general is of the opinion that the secretary of state may revoke a dealers license and require him to procure a regular license for each and every car he operates for sale, if such dealer is found violating the provisions of the law governing the use of dealers' licenses."

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER— SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

CHAPTER 81.

Even yet that summer spent in the country is like a dreadful nightmare to me. There is no use in recording the daily bickerings, the disagreements. Keith was so busy, at least he said so, that often he remained in town during the week, sleeping at the club, and only coming down the week end. I really suffered. Not only was I unhappy in my environment, but I knew that Mrs. De Lisle had also remained in town, contrary to her usual custom. When talking with Margaret she had said:

"I never have remained in town. But it is so cool and there are the roof gardens, the Inns where one can motor for dinner and other pleasures. I shall try it. If I don't like it I'll come down and find a place near you."

She had not come. To me who knew of her intimacy with Keith, an intimacy that even to myself I called only "friendship", it was torture to know she was where he could—and did as I found out—spend his evenings with her.

Had I been happier in my own environment perhaps I should not have so constantly dwelt upon this intimacy, but unhappy, alone, away from Erma, I had no outlet for my misery, so self-pity, worry, and anxious, unpleasant thoughts took up much of my time.

We were in mourning for mother so could not take part in the social affairs of the summer colony. Gloria and Irene were the only members of the family who did so, and theirs were simple outdoor childish pleasures. I often longed to join them, but if I so much as mentioned doing anything Margaret accused me of pretending I cared for Mother Sanderson so she would leave me something.

About the middle of August, Tom Benedict came down to the country club, which was near us, for his vacation. He called, of course. I was awfully glad to see him, and he knew passed us. They made a re-knew it. Margaret said I "gushed" like a school girl.

After Tom came down I was not quite so miserable, simply because I was not quite so lonely. He had not so many hours to think and fret. He used to meet me when I took my long morning walks—Margaret monopolized the car in the country as in town, and walking had been my only exercise. I had thought of buying a saddle horse or hiring one with a part of the money in the bank, but something held me back and seemed to tell me I would need it all. So each morning after June was dressed and attended to. I left her with the nurse and wandered off by myself nursing my unhappiness until the beauty of the day or the exercise would cheer me.

It was nice to have a companion. This was all that was in my mind as day after day Tom Benedict met me and we sauntered along the country roads, or found a patch of woods and rested under the trees.

Naturally we were observed. "I hear you have been walking with Tom Benedict lately," Margaret said one morning as I was leaving the house.

"Yes?" "People will talk, and I am sure Keith would be very angry if he knew."

"Then let him come down and walk with me himself!" I replied.

"You know he is busy."

"Not too busy to take others out even in business hours." Tom had told me only the day before that he had met Keith several times motoring with Alice De Lisle, and also had seen them at road houses in the country about New York.

I said no more but hurried away, followed by her gasp of astonishment. Never had I before allowed her to see that I knew anything of Keith's movements as they applied to the time spent with Mrs. De Lisle. This is the way Tom came to tell me.

We were walking along a lovely stretch of road, and some people he and she knew passed us. They made a remark about his being with his sweet-heart that brought the blood to my cheeks. After the car had turned a bend in the road I said:

"I guess we'd better not walk together anymore."

"Oh, please, Mrs. Sanderson, Vera! Don't let a silly remark from careless people who do not know you spoil your delightful morning walks."

"But I am married, you know," I replied primly.

"Yes, but your husband does not deny himself all pleasure, and he is married too, isn't he?" We both laughed at his query, but as I still objected, and said that Keith would not like it if anyone should gossip about me, Tom seemed to lose his patience and boyishly blurted out the things he knew—which he said everyone in town knew.

"Very well, we will continue our walks," I told him, and for the remainder of that morning I had been feverishly gay.

Keith was having a good time. Why shouldn't I? What was sauce for the Gander should be sauce for the Goose.

Tomorrow—Tom Sees Much of Vera.

OPERATION IS SUCCESSFUL
New York, June 28.—Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist and playwright, who underwent an operation Sunday was reported to be in a satisfactory condition. Her physicians said she passed a fairly comfortable night.

AN ADVERTISEMENT HELPED HER

Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin but now she is as fat as ever." Sayr & Hemphill.

MRS. KABER MAY PLEAD INSANITY TO ESCAPE LAW

Defense May Attempt to Show Woman Insane From Birth.

SORROWFUL FIGURE

Daughter Constantly With Mother in Prison Cell at Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 30.—Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber will bare her soul to save herself and her daughter from the electric chair.

She will tell her life story as the first witness for the defense unless her attorneys first move to have her declared insane, it was announced today.

She will tell all the sordid details of her life from the time, when a girl in her teens she married Thomas McArdle, then a bartender, now a wealthy Chicago business man until the day she married Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher.

She will tell how with Kaber's money she tried to satisfy her yearnings for a social position and how she held to his name after enduring twelve years of what she declares were the revolting practices of a degenerate. Finally she will tell how goaded by an "insane hatred and fear" of the man she sought a "way out." She will state he made advances to her 17 year old daughter.

She has described her twelve years with Kaber as "hell on earth."

Today the possibility looms that the defense may spring a surprise, and as soon as a jury is impaneled demand a trial for Mrs. Kaber on charges of insanity. Under the Ohio procedure if they raise the question of insanity before the state opens its case the court may order the impeding of a civil jury to investigate the accused woman's mental state. The state could not try her for murder if she were declared insane.

The sudden visit of Dr. G. H. Hyde, well known Ohio alienist to examine Mrs. Kaber has given rise to reports that the defense plans this move in an effort to show that the woman was not only insane at the time of Kaber's murder but from birth.

The four women jurors, who have caused so much concern to the defense are in their homes eagerly waiting to sit in their first trial. The defense will use its pre-emptory challenges to eliminate them.

The cartoonist who wonders what "lady jurors" think about would have found abundant material in observing the quartette as they sat in the jury box yesterday. Mrs. Rose Oliver, a middle aged woman vigorously chewed gum while Mrs. Cora Burg, pretty and young and attractively dressed read a love story in a woman's magazine. Mrs. Clara Brackett, a gray haired determined looking woman paid close watch to the proceedings while Mrs. Elsa Fish, a young woman, kept her eyes on the defendant.

According to the attorneys for the defense this shows that women are the "sterner hearted of the species" and lack the quality of mercy. According to the attorneys for the state it shows they are less sentimental than men and have a finer sense of justice.

PEACE RESOLUTION TO PASS THE HOUSE

Washington, June 30.—The peace resolution terminating the state of war with Germany and Austro-Hungary probably will pass the house today and the senate is expected to act similarly on the measure without delay.

Secretary of State Hughes is expected soon according to reports to present terms of a peace treaty with Germany.

These terms have been taken from the Versailles treaty which the senate rejected because it was interwoven with the league of nations' covenant.

HEAR PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE AT MEET

Columbus, O., June 30.—Conferences: the president's message and reports from the board of trustees, the treasurer and the general secretary are on today's program of the annual convention being held here by the Ohio State Sunday School Association.

The world's convention delegates, Dr. Frank L. Brown, Marion Lawrence, Dr. William E. Chalmers and Miss Ruth Olive Halford, will be guests of honor at a banquet tonight.

RUMOR NAMES TAFT.

Washington, June 30.—There was a recurrence in Washington today of the frequent rumors that President Harding would send the nomination of former President Taft to the senate as chief justice of the U. S. Supreme court.

LEADERS OF RAILROAD UNIONS WILL ATTEMPT TO PREVENT WALKOUT

Chiefs Declare That Strike Could Not Be Called at Scheduled Conference—Another Adverse Ruling Faces Labor Organizations Thursday.

Chicago, June 30.—More than a thousand railway union leaders, representing 1,500,000 railway employees, will convene in Chicago tomorrow in an effort to prevent a tie up in the nation's transportation system. These union leaders will decide whether the workers shall abide by the N. S. Railway Labor Board's order slashing wages 12 percent, whether there shall be a walkout permitted or whether further efforts shall be employed in seeking a compromise arrangement.

Union leaders declare a walkout could not be declared at the scheduled conference because such an order would have to be backed up in many instances by a referendum vote of members of the unions which as yet have not expressed their sentiments by ballot.

The executive council of the federated shop crafts has called the six presidents of the crafts to hurry to Chicago. The shop craft workers have voted to reject the wage cut.

Other railway unions which have already taken a referendum vote include the metal workers, signal men, stationary engineers and maintenance of way men.

There will be representatives in addition to the above unions of the engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, switchmen and clerks at the Chicago conclave.

There will be four main meetings in progress simultaneously. The conference of the four railway brotherhood chairmen—by far the largest meeting—will be at the Medinah Temple; maintenance of way men will meet at the Masonic Temple; the railway clerks representatives at the Atlantic Hotel and the chief executives of the railway workers' organizations will assemble at the Great Northern hotel.

The various organizations were faced today by a further adverse ruling by the railway labor board, which will react against them in their controversies with the employing roads. This decision held that no separate agreement on wages or working conditions, made by any group of railway employees shall have force against an agreement made with that class of employees as a whole.

When the conference of the railway workers heads was first called for Chicago the 12 per cent wage slash was to be made operative July 1. That condition has been modified by the railway labor board, extending indefinitely the national agreement obviating any slash in all cases where the railways and workers have not been able to get together on a new wage scale and working agreement. This means that in the majority of cases 12 percent cut will not be made operative tomorrow as originally intended.

Turks To Accept Allies' Offer To Mediate Issue

Make Provision That Greeks Evacuate Smyrna—Twenty-five Thousand Refugees are Being Embarked at Ismid, Where Fighting Occurs.

Constantinople, June 30.—The Turkish nationalists have notified the allies that they will accept allied mediation for peace with Greece on condition that the Greeks immediately vacate Smyrna, it was reported today.

Twenty five thousand refugees are being embarked at Ismid on the sea of Marmora which has been the scene of heavy fighting between the Greeks and Turks. Allied subjects are leaving Ismid for fear the Greeks will bombard the city.

A British force has been sent to Yarinijik to disarm the Greek refugees to prevent them from drawing the Turks into the neutral zone.

An attack by the Turkish nationalists upon this city is still a possibility. It is doubtful if there are sufficient allied troops here to defend Constantinople against a big attack.

TERRIFIC GRILLING FACES STILLMAN IN DIVORCE CASE

Occupies Role of Star Witness in His Own Behalf.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 30.—James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank of New York City, faced a terrific grilling under cross examination of the witness stand when hearings were resumed today in the ex-banker's suit for divorce against Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman.

For the second time in two days, Stillman occupied the role of star witness in his own behalf in the suit against his wife and the action against little Guy Stillman whose paternity he disclaims.

During his first session upon the stand Stillman refused for the most part to answer the volley of questions hurled at him by John Brennan, chief of counsel for Mrs. Stillman and by John E. Mack legal guardian of Guy Stillman invariably fell back upon the set phrases:

"I refuse to answer on the ground it would incriminate me."

Under the ruling of Referee Daniel J. Gleason, that Attorney Mack might cross examine the former banker at length, it was anticipated that Stillman's answers today would be more enlightening than those of yesterday.

REPORT SHORTAGE OF JUNE BRIDES

Chicago, June 30.—There's a great June bride shortage in Chicago. Business depression has affected the marriage license bureau, who says there were 600 fewer marriage licenses issued this month in Chicago than in June 1920. Loath to believe that romance is waning, Legner attributed the drop partially to the apartment shortage and the "general unrest."

CANAL BUSINESS POOR

Washington, June 29.—Traffic through the Panama Canal in May was the lightest for any month since June 1920, according to the current issue of the Panama Canal Record. Commercial ships passing through the big cut totaled 210, an average of 6.8 per day.

JIMMY ON WAY TO HIS NEW HOME

Jimmy Blangy, 10, is on his way to a good home.

In charge of Probation Officer Joseph Watts, Jimmy was taken to Columbus, Thursday morning, to be turned over to the State Board of Charities.

The boy will be placed in an institution, according to the decision rendered by Juvenile Judge J. Carl Marshall in his case Wednesday and will be given an opportunity to make himself into a useful citizen.

Jimmy came into prominence several weeks ago when he shot and killed his brother, Virgil, aged eight at their home near Cedarville and he had a hearing on a delinquent charge Wednesday.

TURKISH STRAITS MUST STAY OPEN

Constantinople, June 30.—"It is the position of Japan that the Turkish Straits (Dardanelles) Bosphorus and the state of Marmora must not be dominated by any single power," said Baron Uchida, Japanese envoy to Turkey, in an interview here today. "Turkey forgets that she was defeated in war. She wants to regain by force the territories she lost. That is impossible."

FOURTEEN INDICTED IN INVESTIGATION OF COUNTY RECORDS

Grand Jury at Mansfield Holds Officials of County.

Mansfield, O., June 30.—The grand jury after investigating county records for several days returned 14 indictments, 12 being subroas. Among those which have been made public are two against County Surveyor Boyd Wierman, third term, one charging him with presenting false and fraudulent bills, the other with presenting fake pay rolls and forgery.

Charles Huber of Shelby, a deputy in the county auditor's office was indicted on the charge of uttering a false warrant and altering public records. He is charged in the indictment with raising a check for $20 to $120.

Verne Swisher, a road contractor, was indicted on the charge of falsifying pay rolls. All this grows out of the visit of State Examiner Young of Mt. Vernon to this county. The grand jury was given a recess after which it will be called back to further investigate.

CIVILIZATION NOW IN HANDS OF U. S. DECLARES HERRICK

Luncheon Given in Honor of Ambassador to France.

Cleveland, O., June 30.—"Let the dead past bury its dead," said Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, at a luncheon given in his honor by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, prior to his departure for Paris to take up his duties. "Civilization cannot be saved today without the help of the United States. And it is within the power of the people of this country—it is within the power of congress—to save the world."

"I feel that the world have arrived at the beginning of a new epoch. We have passed through troublesome years, and I think you will agree that we must cease raking up the past. The future just ahead, the future that imperils the world, not only Europe but our own country is enough to occupy our attention. We need to use all our energies to see that the fruits of this war are not lost and that civilization is not broken up."

SIXTY THOUSAND SEATS FOR FIGHT HAVE BEEN SOLD

Over $1,100,000 is in Coffers of Promoter Tex Rickard.

New York, June 30.—More than sixty thousand seats for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at Jersey City Saturday have been sold and more than $1,100,000 is in the coffers of Promoter Tex Rickard. Legal interference has practically been squelched, all details for the big fight arranged and all that remains to make "the battle of the century" a success is good weather. This has been promised by the forecaster at Washington. With but a few minor details to wind up, therefore, promoter Rickard took things easy today.

The total expense of the fight including the $500,000 purse is estimated at $1,000,000. As the sale has already passed that mark and there is a chance that every one of the 91,613 seats in the arena will be filled there is a chance that the "gate" will be $1,670,000 or more than three times that of any previous fight in history.

Betting on the fight grew a bit livelier today. Carpentier money which has been scarce appeared in various quantities and the odds on Dempsey dropped from 3 to 1 to 2 1/2 to 1. Many freak bets and wagers on the number of rounds the fight will last were recorded.

Investigation by Rickard's agents and the authorities brought to light today the fact that there are apparently three sets of odds.

Out. The authorities are running down every clew.

POLES EVACUATING OCCUPIED TERRITORY

Berlin, June 30.—General Henricke, commander of the British troops in Upper Silesia, notified General Hoefler, commander of the German volunteers, that the Poles have completed the first phase of their evacuation of occupied territory said a dispatch from Oppeln today. Gen Hoefler has ordered the Germans to withdraw.

U. S. ASSURED THAT NEW ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY WILL BE WITHOUT TEETH

Agreement Will be Revamped so That It Will Be Little More Than a Treaty of Amity and Commerce Between Powers.

Washington, June 30.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance in which the United States is vitally interested will be renewed, but renewed in such a way that all the teeth will be taken out of it, according to reliable information which has reached Washington from the imperial conference now going on in London.

In well informed diplomatic quarters today the opinion was expressed that when the treaty is revamped and signed by Great Britain and Japan it will be little more than a treaty of amity and commerce between the two great powers and one that will hold forth no military or naval menace against the United States.

The U. S. government it was said today has not received any official assurance that this is to be the upshot of the imperial conference, but the belief is so strong that the United States has little to fear in the renewal of the alliance that the administration has no hesitancy about going ahead with disarmament plans.

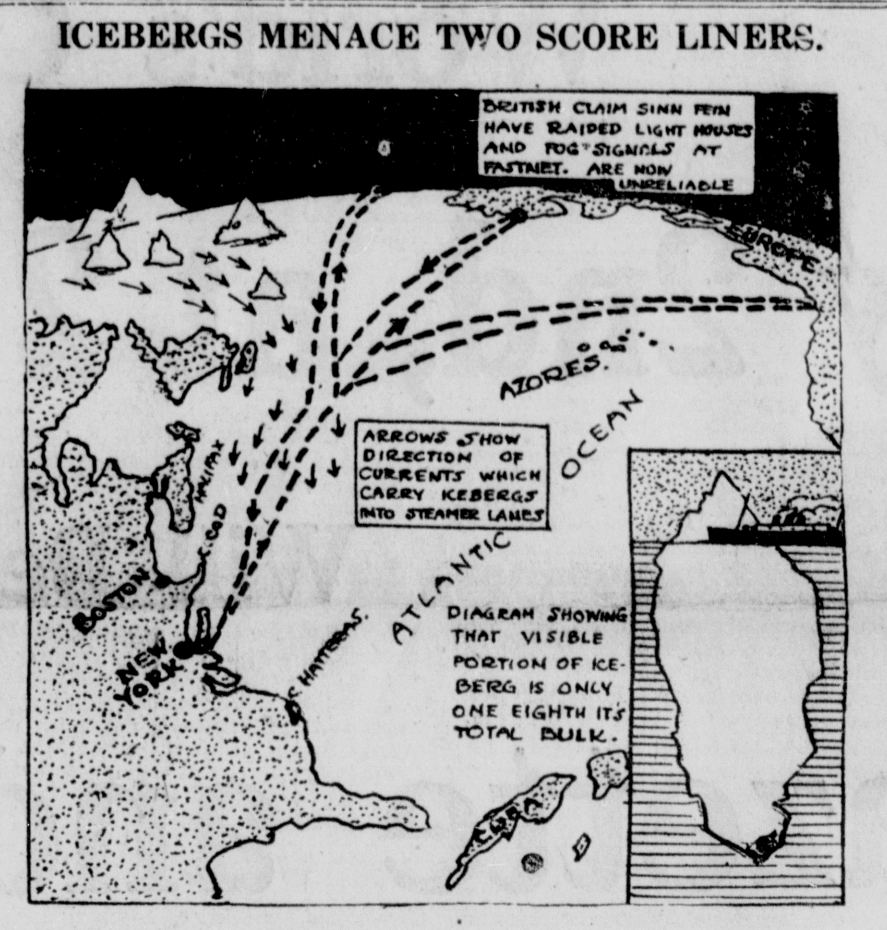

The status of the disarmament situation today is that both senate and house have adopted by an overwhelming vote the Borch amendment to the naval bill, authorizing and requesting the president to invite Great Britain and Japan to get around the table and talk of limiting armament for five years. It is now up to President Harding. He can take steps whenever in his judgment he deems the time to be propitious.

It is understood however, that the president will take no action until it is seen clearly and definitely what results come out of the London conference. In any event the present is not deemed by leaders to be the proper time to take formal advances.

Not only does the administration intend to await the London meeting but also it desires to await the result of the feelers which President Harding has thrown out among the world powers on the question of disarmament.

ICEBERGS MENACE TWO SCORE LINERS.

An unusual number of icebergs have been reported extraordinarily far south. Near Sable Island six big ice masses were seen by the Caronia, which arrived a few days ago. Other incoming ships reported many bergs in the ship lanes, forcing slow headway. Forty-seven liners are now crossing the ocean, carrying very large passenger lists. In addition to the danger from icebergs, the British Admiralty has issued a warning that the fog signals at Fastnet, Bull Rock and Skellig off the southwest coast of Ireland, had become unreliable owing to Sinn Fein activities.

Victory For Navy Result of Aerial Bombing Tests

Naval Officials Confident That Modern Battleship Comparatively Safe From Bombardments From Air—Only Two Direct Hits Scored.

On Board U. S. S. Henderson at Sea, By Destroyer to Hampton Roads, Naval Base, Va., June 30.—Officers of the Atlantic fleet, who followed the air attack upon the discarded United States battleship Iowa, were confident today that the test has proved modern battleship is comparatively safe from aerial bombardments.

Consequently there is great glee on the Atlantic fleet. About 80 bombs were aimed at the Iowa by the four bomber machines that carried out the attack, some of them in salvos of 17 and the official report showed two direct hits upon the Iowa's forecastle. There was no defense from the Iowa. The attack lasted two hours and 27 minutes.

The fleet is splitting up today and leaving the Hampton Roads rendezvous for the North of July. There are many officers on board who have new faith in the declaration of former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels that he would be willing to stand upon the bridge of a battleship and let the General Mitchell bomb him from airplane.

OHIO'S NEW SYSTEM OF ADMINISTERING BUSINESS TO START

Columbus, O., June 30.—Ohio's new business system of state administration will begin functioning at 11 a. m. tomorrow when the eight directors of the new state departments, constituting the governor's cabinet will assemble in the offices of Gov. Davis and be sworn into office.

Gov. Davis has voiced the belief that operation of the new business system of state government will save Ohio taxpayers large sums of money annually and will be marked by a vastly higher type of public service, based upon efficiency.

PRINCE ESCAPES BOMB.

Berlin, June 30.—Prince Regent Alexander of Servia and Premier Pasich had a miraculous escape from death at Belgrade when a bomb was exploded, said a dispatch from Belgrade today. Seven persons were wounded. A Hungarian communist was arrested. The outrage is attributed to Hungarian royalists.

GOOD JOBS AWAIT FIGHTERS.

Chicago, June 30.—Monsieur Georges Carpentier and Mr. Jack Dempsey cheer up.

Matter who loses the championship Saturday there will be a job awaiting the loser at Morris and Company, meat packers, Edward Morris, president of the firm telegraphed Carpentier offering him a job as salesman at the Paris branch if he should lose the fight, while to Dempsey he wired that if he lost there would be a job awaiting him in the company's police department at the Chicago plant.

When asked for further details Mr. Morris said his offer to Dempsey carried with it a free yellow and black uniform with red buttons, while to Carpentier there would be given a white butcher's frock.

He said if either position was not to the taste of the fighters, he would try to find the loser a place on one of his big farms.

BELIEVE PEACE WITH IRELAND NOT FAR AWAY

Despite Obstacles in Way Conference is Thought Near.

TROUBLE BREWING

De Valera Will Be Forced to Iron Out Feeling in Country.

London, June 30.—Irish extremists are threatening to revolt and set up a new government if Eamonn DeValera continues peace negotiations in compliance with Premier Lloyd George's latest proposals, according to information reaching Whitehall today.

Mike Collins, so called commander in chief of the Irish republican army, is reported to have announced that he will never surrender even if the rest of Ireland does so.

London, June 30.—Despite the new obstacles in the way of the proposed Irish peace parley the opinion was held in many quarters today that the conference will be held in some form.

"Does DeValera really want peace?" queried the Daily Mail in commenting upon the Sinn Fein official's second message to Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster.

The Daily Mail called it a pity that Sir James Craig refused DeValera's invitation to go to Dublin Monday for a Sinn Fein-Unionist conference.

"Sir James Craig's refusal will undoubtedly help to obscure DeValera's real attitude," added the Daily Mail.

The message which DeValera sent to Sir James Craig at Belfast follows:

"I regret that you cannot come for a conference here Monday. Premier Lloyd George's proposal because of complications, is impossible of acceptance in its present form. Irish political differences ought to be adjusted and can be adjusted. I believe, upon Irish soil. But it is obvious that in negotiating peace with Great Britain the Irish delegation ought not to be divided but should act as a unit on some common principle."

It was stated that the Dublin conference would be held despite Sir James Craig's absence. Other unionist leaders will be present.

HOLD SPECIAL TERM OF COURT TO ENTER DECREE IN A CASE

Over $100,000 Involved in Alleged Misuse of Funds.

Lexington, Ky., June 30.—Judge A. M. J. Cochran, of the United States district court, will hold a special term July 16 to enter a decree in the case of Chicago Union No. 3 and others against George L. Berry, president, and other officers of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants union of North America. It was announced today. More than $100,000 is involved, this amount having been misused by Berry and other defendants, it is alleged.

Judge Cochran ruled last month that he will then decide whether or not the officers are to be removed or a convention called to elect others to fill out the remainder of the terms. The case was transferred here from Knoxville, Tenn., having previously been transferred from the court of Judge K. M. Landis, of Chicago.

BLOW ON JAW IS FATAL TO FIGHTER

Columbus, O. June 30.—During a street quarrel, Marion McFarland, 35, disabled overseas veteran, is alleged to have landed a blow on the jaw, killing Thomas Justus, 35, unmarried.

McFarland, married, was arrested. He said Justus insulted him and threatened to hit him and that he hit Justus in self defense. Justus' skull was fractured when his body hit the pavement.

This is the 12th homicide here this year.

SPANISH CABINET ABOUT TO RESIGN

ANKENEY-MONCE NUPTIAL SOLEMIZED

One of the prettiest of recent June weddings, was that of Miss Lois Ankney, daughter of Mr. L. W. Ankney of Treble, Ohio, to Mr. Edwin Walton Monce, of Cincinnati, which was solemnized at the beautiful Ankney country home, Wednesday at high noon.

The living room of the Ankney home was chosen as the scene of the ceremony, which took place before the large bay windows. Palms and other greenery formed a bower for the service. Asparagus fern was used in the reception hall, being twined about the handles of wicker baskets, which were filled with many different flowers, and forming an aisleway in which the bride and groom walked. Many baskets of the different summer flowers were used in the decoration of the other rooms of the Ankney home, pink being used as the predominating color.

Preceding the ceremony Mr. Nelson Ankney, brother of the bride, sang two songs, 'I Love You Truly' and 'O Promise Me' Mrs. Nelson Ankney accompanied her husband.

Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Grace Monce upon the entrance of the wedding party into the living room.

The bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Nixon Powers of Covington, Miss. Winifred Ankney, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor walk alone.

Miss Ankney presented a lovely picture, in a frock of pink Organdy, with hand made flowers, and wearing a becoming picture hat of the same material. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia and Sweetheart roses.

Little Miss Catherine Nelle McCallmont, niece of the bride in white net with pink and blue touches, made a charming flower girl, strewn white rose petals in the path of the bride. By her side walked Master, Edwin Kinderman, a nephew of the bridegroom, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinderman of Detroit, Michigan, as ring bearer.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. Her wedding gown was of white tulle, and her veil of tulle, caught with orange blossoms, fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. She wore a diamond brooch, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride party was met at the altar by the officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. G. A. Scott of the First Methodist Church, this city.

Following the ceremony a reception and luncheon was held. The guests were seated at small tables arranged throughout the rooms. Seated at the bride's table were: Mr. and Mrs. Monce, Mr. Nixon Powers, Miss Winifred Ankney, Mr. Stanley Richards, Miss Grace Monce, a cousin of the bridegroom, Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Scott, Miss Kathryn Warner, Miss Blanch Hickox, Mr. Frederick Flynn and Marjorie Miller.

Following the reception and luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Monce left for their wedding trip. Mrs. Monce wore a traveling suit of navy blue tulle, with a milan hat of the same shade. Her shoes were black suede pumps. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Monce will make their home in Covington, Virginia, where Mr. Monce is engaged as civil engineer.

Mrs. Monce who is a very attractive girl, is a graduate of Beaver Creek township high school, and of Ohio Wesleyan University. Since her graduation, in the spring of 1919, she has been an instructor in the high school of Upper Sandusky.

PRESIDENT SIGNS NEW ARMY BILL

Washington, June 30.—President Harding today signed the army appropriation bill decreasing the size of the American army from 220,000 to 150,000 men and in so doing, he transmitted a brief message to both houses of congress expressing the embarrassment which the action causes the administration, at this time.

The president pointed out that it is doubtful if the reduction can be effected without the summary dismissal of thousands of men from the army 'who have a right to expect from the hands of the government the same moral obligation which the government requires of them when they enlist for service.'

SAYS HE IS NOT OLDEST RESIDENT

W. F. Hypes, of Chicago, former Xenian, is not the oldest former Xenian in point of years that he has lived in Chicago.

The honor is due, he says to James Watt, who went to Chicago about three years before Mr. Hypes and has since been making his home there. Mr. Hypes comes next in point of years as a resident of the Windy City from Xenia.

Secretary F. J. Slackford, of the Greene County Automobile Club, had an unusual request from a Club member Thursday.

R. H. Glass, Jamestown groceryman, asked Mr. Slackford to help locate his dog, which is said to have jumped on the running board of a strange machine in Jamestown several days ago, and disappeared.

The dog is a Boston Terrier, with one black eye, a black spot on his back, a short head, kinky tail and weighs about 25 pounds. He answers to the name of 'Fritz.'

RENTS ROOM NOW MUSIC STORE TO NEW SHOE COMPANY

W. C. Sutton, of the Sutton Auto Sales Company and the Sutton Music Store, has leased the store room part of his building at Main and White-man streets to the Fit-Rite Shoe Company, of Cincinnati, which operates a chain of stores in this section. Mr. Sutton will remove his music business to the store room he formerly occupied in the Davidson building on Green street.

The new shoe company will be given possession of the store room under a six year lease about August 1, or as soon as Mr. Sutton can vacate. Only the store room will be available, the garage, and automobile paint and repair shop in the rear being retained by Mr. Sutton for his own occupancy, and he will continue his automobile business in that part of the building.

The Sutton music store was located on Green street for fifteen years, and for ten years was in the room, recently vacated by L. F. Clevenger's Sugar Bowl, which Mr. Sutton will occupy in the future. Later the music store was moved to the Bijou Theater entrance, and from there to its present location, where there is room on the floor for a number of automobiles also.

Vivian Cleora Sheely.

Vivian Cleora, little daughter of Walter and Emma Sheeley was born September 13th, 1919, and died June 24th 1921, aged 21 months, 11 days. Only a few short months just as the tender bud of life was opening, God took her away to be an angel for him.

She was sick only a short while from Monday until Friday and bore her pain and little sufferings patiently, and all that tender hearts and loving hands could do, could not keep her with us, and we are made to wonder why our hearts must be saddened by the taking of this little life—yet God in his great goodness doeth all things well.

We will miss her—Oh, how much—but our loss is her gain—and as we bow our heads to his Divine will—beneath it all there is a certain sweetness that draws us closer to the Heavenly Father, strengthening our love for him.

Little Kathryn Newana who passed on before will be waiting for her.

Two little angels now on high, They hand in hand together roam, Two links now bind us to the sky, Two fingers beacon us to come, Lord give us strength our loss to bear, And lead us in our Heavenly way, Oh may we meet our children there, In balm of Everlasting Day.

Precious darlings they have left us, Left us, yes forever more, But we hope to meet our loved ones On that bright and happy shore, Lonely the house and sad the hours Since our dear ones gone, But oh a brighter home than ours, In heaven is now their own.

Jane L. Fitzpatrick

Jane L. Fitzpatrick, wife of W. W. Fitzpatrick, was born near Jamestown July 18, 1856, and departed this life at their home near New Jasper, Ohio, Sunday at noon, June 26th, 1921, aged 64 years, 11 months and 8 days. She was the youngest daughter of Joseph and Eliza Snodgrass, and of a family of seven children there is only one surviving, Milo R. Snodgrass of Xenia, Ohio. On February 17th, 1876 she was united in marriage to W. W. Fitzpatrick, and to them were born three children, J. Raymond, W. Foster and L. Merle. J. Raymond, or better known as Professor Fitzpatrick, was removed by death September 29th, 1919.

just nine months ago today. Surviving her are her husband, son Foster, who resides near Jamestown, her daughter Merle at home, who so faithfully cared for her in her last illness, and one granddaughter Wanda Lucile. The early part of their married life was spent on part of the home place, and in March 1901, they moved to their present home.

Her strong quiet character was manifest in sickness as in health and she had many qualities that fitted her for home, wifehood and motherhood; and her devotion to husband and children was most marked. Her decline in health has been noticed by her family since the death of her son Raymond. Her desire was that her children might be educated and fitted for the responsibilities of life, and she lived to see this accomplished, and to hear Dr. McChesney, President of Cedarville College, and Raymond's personal friend, who conducted his funeral service, speak of him in complimentary terms, of his life when under his supervision. Dr. McChesney regretted his inability to be present on this occasion, but could not on account of a previous engagement. Her neighbors and friends say she was kind, loyal and neighborly; her children rise up and call her blessed; this is her eulogy. So passes the life of Jane Snodgrass Fitzpatrick, never to be forgotten.

UNITED STATES HISTORY TO BE STUDIED BY BRITISH UNIVERSITIES.

A London dispatch says that last Monday Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador in Washington, inaugurating the Sir George Watson chair of American history at the Mansion House, declared the United States Constitution "the greatest single contribution made to Government as an applied science."

Englishmen, Viscount Bryce asserted, studied American history too little, and he hoped the Watson Foundation would bear abundant fruit in a better understanding between the two peoples.

Discussing the relative merits of the British and American systems of government, and the failure of the United States Constitution to settle the slavery question without civil war, Viscount Bryce said:

"The British parliamentary system has for more than eighty years failed to settle a question less formidable, but always threatening strife and deranging the proper working of its own machinery, that of securing peace and goodwill in Ireland."

The establishment of the Watson chair is said to be the first serious attempt to teach American history in England aside from the course begun in Oxford University a year ago. The movement, an outgrowth of the work of the Anglo-American Society, is spreading and the English are taking a new interest in American institutions and problems. The Watson chair will not be attached to any university, but lectures will be delivered in the various colleges.

THE WONDERS OF THE "WIRELESS" GROWING GREATER ALL THE TIME.

German wireless experts expect soon to be able to ring up New York from Berlin by wireless telephone, having already successfully bridged more than 2700 miles, equal to the airline distance from Berlin to Newfoundland.

The experiments were conducted by the Argentine steamship Bahia Blanca on a trip from Hamburg to Buenos Aires. Communications were maintained from the departure from Hamburg, first through the ten-kilowatt station at Koenigswusterhausen, whose messages were heard until the steamship was 2200 miles out. The giant Nauen station, with a 130-kilowatt sender, then took up the task and was able to reach the steamship 500 miles more, until the Bahia Blanca entered a region where atmospheric disturbances regularly interfere with wireless transmission.

The messages were heard with absolute distinctness at European land stations, ranging from Bucharest and Madrid to Stockholm and Christiania, though these were not provided with the recently devised amplifying receiver.

IF IT WORKS IN IRELAND, WHERE CAN IT FAIL?

From the London Daily Mail.

Rotary is the resurrection of the chivalry and courtesy of the Knights of the Round Table so that it may live again in the modern business world. That is the idealistic side.

Beautiful, you reply, but—does it work?

Consider this fact. In Belfast there is an active Rotary Club. So also in Dublin. Deep and harsh are the divisions which separate these cities. But the two clubs are in the friendliest intercourse. They visit one another. They pull together. Rotary in its own measure has broken down the estrangement of generations. If it works in Ireland, where can it fail?

The Rotarian enters into genuine, wholesome good-fellowship through the circle of his club. He receives enlightenment as to other men's work, their problems and successes. He is stimulated in his desire to be of service—that is the "slogan" of Rotary—his city and country. He becomes a better business man and a finer citizen.

So, hail to the Rotary-comers from across the seas!

FIGHTING THE COAL LOBBY.

There is no reason to doubt the substantial accuracy of Senator Frelinghuysen's description of the coal lobby that is fighting all attempts to bring the coal trade into some sort of supervisory control as one of the most formidable that has ever undertaken to influence the course of Federal legislation. And it might be added that it is deservedly one of the most unpopular, because it is seeking to prevent that publicity which ought to attend industrial operations so vital to the welfare of the people, and because it is antagonistic to the universal desire of the people to secure one of the most vital necessities of life and industry at a fair and reasonable price.

In spite of the violence and extravagance of the denunciations of the legislation that is pending in the senate, there does not seem to be anything very radical or dangerous in the proposal that the coal trade shall submit to complete publicity as to their product, its cost from the mine to the bins of the consumer. If the so-called "coal barons" are receiving so small a return on their investment, if they are the unselfish, disinterested and altruistic benefactors of the nation some of them would like us to believe, they ought to be more than willing to have the facts demonstrated by official statistics, gathered by impartial investigators acting in the public interest. If, on the other hand, they are the cold-blooded extortionists so many people believe them to be, the very vehemence of their opposition to publicity is easily accounted for.

Most consumers of coal, hard or soft, will not be much impressed by the contention of the coal lobby that the Frelinghuysen measure is a long step toward Government ownership of the mines. There is far greater danger of the Nation being driven to that extreme through the refusal of the coal men to put all their cards on the table and offer convincing proofs that the prices they demand for coal are just and right, the inevitable consequences of economic conditions beyond human control. In fighting publicity the coal lobby stands in a false position before the public and no amount of disclaimers will change the deep-rooted suspicion in the public mind that they don't want the truth and the whole truth to be spread before the public by a disinterested and impartial authority.—Public Ledger.

DRYING THE CLOTHES UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Messrs. Frank Keyes and Ford McClung employed at the powder works at Aetna, Ill., arrived this morning, and will spend a couple weeks vacation at their home in this city. "Pete" and Ford are both pleased with their positions.

A little daughter of Rudolph Rinck, the tailor, while picking cherries at the home of her grandmother, on the Cincinnati pike, fell from the tree and fractured the bone of her arm.

A plan is being considered for improving the condition of South Detroit street, beneath the overhead bridge. The road at that point was made considerably lower in order to get the O. S. and S. O. Home Rapid Transit Car through. It will probably be paved and a system of drainage put on so that the surplus water will be carried off.

The auction sale of lots on Orient Hill, Saturday, was greatly interfered with by the heat, and had to be postponed until another time. Only two lots were sold, these being in the vicinity of $200 each.

We understand that John P. Martin, and his associates have secured a complete and desirable right of way from Wilmington, to Xenia, with the least kicking and grumbling, making the transaction the freest right of way ever secured by the company.

AN EDITORIAL ON BUYING

Unlike owls and one or two other examples of animal life, human beings see better in the daylight than they do in the dark.

Yet, it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: now more than ever before, we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value.

We ought to be co-operating with all of the business and economic forces which have been started to make one dollar equal one hundred cents in buying power. Yet lots and lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut tight.

And yet it is so easy to be sure you are spending wisely.

The means of knowing how is in your hands. It is in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Spend a few minutes now and every day in running through the advertisements printed here. Then buy the products that have proved up under the spotlight of consistent publicity.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise invite the inspection of thousands of eyes.

Here in the advertising columns you see products that have made good before the critical audience of buyers. These products are full value products. They return you dollar for dollar.

The horse trading proclivities of the shrewd old David Harum have lost caste. They prove too costly to the perpetrator.

It used to be considered good business to trade a horse with the heavens for one that was sound in wind and limb. But business-to-day is done on such a broad scale—every merchant and manufacturer has so long a list of patrons—that it would be fatal to acquire a reputation of "slipping something over." The basis of modern business is honesty. Advertising has standardized almost every article you can buy. You know what to expect and what to pay. You don't have to bargain, and dicker, to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That is why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance and lasting usefulness, or of its definite quality.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time, read the advertisements. In them you will find much to save you money, time and energy.

Whether you want food, clothing, furniture or a toy for the children, the advertisements can help you. Read the advertisements therefore, and buy the advertised products.

Then you can know you're spending your money wisely.

STAGE MIDSUMMER SKIING NORTHWEST

Seattle, Wash.—Skiing in the summer? It can't be done, says the sophisticated Easterner and Southerner. But Pacific Northwesters know better. They stage a ski tournament every summer and have plenty of good white snow on which to pull off spectacular stunts. That makes the crowds "O" and "Ah!" as the performers go sailing through the air, 50 to 90 feet.

Ski jumpers throughout the Northwest Canada and even the Middle West are preparing to enter the fifth annual midsummer tournament at Paradise Valley, 5,557 feet above sea-level, in Rainier National Park, on the slopes of Mount Rainier. The date of the tourney this summer is July 3.

Men and women who took honors in meets held in previous seasons have announced their intention of and, in addition, Canadian ski experts will enter the coming tournament competing in these events. Others from Norway and Sweden also are expected this summer. The tournament is under the direction of the Northwest Ski Club.

Last year hundreds of persons went to Paradise Inn and from there viewed the ski jumping. Other crowds lined one side of the course, which was marked off on Alta Vista Knoll, near the inn. The tourney this season will be held over the same course.

The warm weather last year made the course sticky and the going rather heavy, so that no new records were set up. However, L. Larson, a sturdy son of Norway, who now lives at Aberdeen, Wash., leaped away with high honors by a jump of ninety feet. He also won the honorary prize for style and length of leaping and an extra prize of a silver trophy, which must be won two years in succession to become the property of the winner. This is one reason for the intense interest in the tournament this season. Larsen must win the cup again and will make every effort to take the trophy home with him for permanent keeping. This trophy is given for the best all-around man in the tournament.

Leaps do not count unless the contestants retain their footing and many of the jumpers have difficulty maintaining an upright position after the leap. Icy, smooth snow is ideal for good jumping, but wet snow causes so much friction when the jumper lands that it is liable to throw him off his balance.

Preparations have been made to handle even larger crowds at Paradise Valley this summer than ever before, and it is assured that a large entry list of jumpers will be on hand.

TIMES IMPROVE.

The hammer rings throughout the land, they're building sheds on every hand, and normalcy returns; the honest workman sheds his coat and builds a hencoop or a boat, and blows in what he earns. The war is over, and at last we're cutting out the grisly past, of which we talked so long; the present is a bully time for buying lumber, lath and lime, and we are going strong. The Problems we were wont to ride now have a rest, we let them slide, until the Harvest Home; and now we spend our afternoons in planting peas and stringless prunes, and digging up the loam. The loafers do not throng the street, emerging from their dark retreat in alley or in court, and in my jaunts I do not rub against the Spit and Argue Club, which used to hold the fort. The signs and tokens everywhere a better state of things declare, and men are growing sane; less foolish clamors do they raise and they forsake the doty ways that gave the gods a pain. There are discordant notes, I know, and there are strains of strife and woe, by which the world is bored; but through the wail of grief and wrong you hear the grand triumphant song of industry restored.

THE CHILD'S HAIR

The health and beauty of a grown person's hair depends so much upon its care during the first dozen years of life that I should say it was more important for the hair to be taken care of during that period than any other time. Children may inherit a tendency toward thin and weak hair, or toward dandruff and premature greyness, but these tendencies can be overcome or, at least, greatly lessened by the care of the scalp during childhood.

One of the first things that happens to a new-born baby is that its scalp is covered with vaseline; this is merely part of the nurse's duties and is never neglected. But not very many nurses or mother's remember to rub the baby's scalp with a little olive oil during first six or seven months of its life. If the scalp is dry this should be done every day; if not, every few days. It stimulates the growth of the hair.

If a child's hair is thin it should be kept short as long as possible. In any case it is a good thing to keep children's hair short since it is less trouble for both child and mother and since clipping is good for the hair. Children, rightly, go bareheaded most of the time; it is good for their hair except when the weather is too cool or the midsummer sun is too hot.

Ordinarily once every two weeks is the proper time to shampoo the child's hair. The scalp must be kept clean and children do not protect their heads from the dust and dirt of the atmosphere as grown-ups do. The best shampoo is castile or tar soap, never any fancy shampoo concoction. A little massage of the scalp with the finger tips is a good thing.

Unknown.—This space is not sufficient for me to go into all the details as to how a person may become stout and also well developed. Send an addressed stamped envelope and I shall be pleased to discuss the subject with you.

Anxious.—Exercise will develop the muscles of the legs when they are too thin, while it will also reduce very stout ones by absorbing the fat.

A. B. C.—Bleaching freckles is not satisfactory as the freckles come from iron, which is in the blood and the sun brings it to the surface in the form of these little spots. They are not really as disfiguring as some people think, as the skin that freckles is usually very clear and pink. Health and freckles are so frequently associated, that a moderate number of freckles may easily be an asset to some people. Cucumber or strawberry juice will bleach them moderately, if the lemon juice is irritating.

SECOND PLANTING WILL BE MADE

According to the reports of gardeners and plant producers there will be an extraordinary amount of late garden truck produced this fall.

Rain has been so frequent that gardeners, both the amateur and professional, have hit upon the plan of starting late crops of such things as cabbage and tomatoes and are setting many plants.

The growth of all garden produce has been greatly hastened by the incessant rains.

If the chemical scientists of our own country can be maintained in such work as this against the competition of Germany, it is prophesied that many more wonders may be worked in the field of human health.

What Paris Is Wearing

The newest Paris skirts are ankle length and quite full. Hem lines are still uneven.

White kid or buckskin low shoes are the only proper ones to wear with pale organdie dresses. Some of the smartest models are frequently decorated with pipings of black patent leather. Double strap fastening is the most popular this season.

Exceedingly smart the wide scarfs of moire or taffeta ribbon trimmed with long silk fringes. These scarfs may today be used as a belt on a light Summer dress, yet tomorrow will serve as a sole garniture on a large floppy garden hat.

Huge organdie flowers placed at the proper angle will transform a very simple but well-cut frock into a thing of beauty. The Summer silk tailcoats are divided into two classes—those with exceedingly short loose box coats and those with coats reaching way down to the very hem of the skirt. All the skirts are simple with but a very little fullness at the sides. White linen bordered with strips of color makes delightful Summer suits. Pongee is very popular. A charming combination consists of a "mélange" of jade green and citron pongee. Foulard also makes a number of very effective Summer suits.

In this season of utter simplicity deep folds of the material are often the only trimming allowed, and by the way, they are very smart. A charming organdie dress thus fashioned, the waist and skirt each trimmed with three horizontal folds.

The square neck fastens at the back with tiny organdie buttons. A wide sash of the material ties at the side front and its hanging ends are edged with a tiny ruffle of Valenciennes lace.

The petal frocks which have been so favored this past Winter are again worn this summer, but French voile replaces chiffon and crepe de chine.

The Florentine neck line is seen on almost every dressy afternoon gown.

The City Park Bench

The other day I took my camera and walked through a nearby park. I took some pictures of benches filled with men and women—while happy children played on the grass about them.

One striking reproduction is before me as I write.

At the near end is a man buried in a newspaper. His shoes are worn and very old. There is eagerness in his eyes as he scans the columns. I note that he is reading the Want-Ad section.

Next to him is a man about 40 years of age. He has no collar on, his socks are trying to meet his toes. His clothes are ill-kept. There is a marked dejection about his entire face, and there are lines about his mouth that would easily say: "Oh, what's the use?"

To the right of this man is a couple. They are holding hands. Neither of them will ever play in their "thirties" again. They are fairly well dressed. But there is something about the expression of each that would give one the impression that life has some little distance to go—and that not too unhopely either.

Following this couple is a colored girl with her hands folded, looking at an angle of 45 degrees ahead. Evidently this is her afternoon "off."

Next to this colored girl is a young white pair. A book is on the lap of the girl. The young man has his hand against his face—as though in the attitude of thinking. Both are well dressed. There is considerable amiability floating about the countenances of both.

Now we come to the single figure of a man about 25 years of age. He has his legs crossed. His clothes look neat and in style. His fingers are interlocked rather stubbornly. There is a deeply marked picture of envy, of boastfulness, of don't-care-ness in his face. He looks strong in body, but you wouldn't want to trust him.

And so the line goes on. Another colored woman in middle age. A woman with a child in her arms. Another man reading a newspaper. A most pleasant woman with a smile on her face. A boy with his cap on the back of his head, smoking a cigarette. A man with a long beard, chewing something. A bootblack shining the shoes of one who looks very much "down and out."

A city park bench—a page from life!

Dinner Stories

"I hear you've been back on a visit to the old cow country. It must seem rather tame out there."

"Since civilization, see, in."

"Come! Say, the way the boys out there dash around the country in their flivvers makes a bucking broncho look like a rocking horse."

A story is told of the late Samuel Spencer. The trains of his railroad were frequently late. He resolved to correct the service. As the train to which his special car was attached drew into its terminal he looked at his watch. It registered exactly noon—the time of scheduled arrival.

He sent for the engineer. "My friend," the great railway executive said, beaming, "do you know what you have done? You have broken the record: you have arrived on time. My congratulations; also, here is $10."

The engineer reached for the money, fumbled it, then sadly handed it back. "I am sorry to have to tell you, Mr. Spencer," he said, "but I cannot take your present, for the truth is this: yesterday's train."

Today cannot ride on yesterday's train. Today has to be its time. "One minute late" is just one minute too late to keep a man's breast of the procession.

A friend of mine wrote a note to the woman editor of a magazine, copying on his heart and hand. "I hope you accept it."

"No. She replied briefly that the rejection of his offer did not imply a lack of merit."

"Why were all the nations fighting, papa?"

"To make the world safe for democracy, my son."

"Up the world safe for democracy now, papa?"

"When will we have peace, papa?"

"When the world is safe for democracy."

"Will the nations always fight to have peace, papa?"

"Yes, always, my son."

Mr. Robinson was inspecting his son's "personal account" for his college term.

"What do you mean by forty dollars for tennis?"

"Oh, that's for a couple of racks. I had to have," replied the son.

"Yes, I understand that, but I think we need to call them bats."

The editor of the Barber County (Kansas) Index recently received the following letter from a subscriber:

Please stop the paper. It is a good paper. I like it and so does the old woman and the kids.

We don't like no other paper so good as the Index, but we are taking a lot of them that ain't no worse than the Index. Well, stop some of them maybe and then take the Index.

We don't know what we would do without the Index. It's a good paper.

Please stop the paper.

GEORGES TO ATTEMPT TO BOX DEMPSEY AT LONG RANGE JULY 2

New York, June 28.—I dropped in on Georges Carpentier at Manhasset about 8 o'clock the other evening. I expected to find the challenger sitting on the veranda or the lawn. He was not in sight.

Presently he came up to the house from the big barn in which he does his gymnasium work. He was flushed and perspiring.

"Ah, Georges," I remarked, "you are putting in some good looks when no one is around?" You are working as you expect to work when you get into the ring with Dempsey next Saturday?"

Carpentier laughed, winked and said pleasantly:

"You are right, Mr. Corbett. I have just been going through some work that I considered very important. I did not get an opportunity to do it earlier in the day. There were too many around."

"You see I am so earnest about this fight. I am really training quite hard. To win means everything to me, more by far than the money, though of course that is a great incentive. But to be champion of the world! That has been my dream for years. 'I will leave nothing undone to bring about its realization.'"

Believe me Georges is serious. He has reasoned out his chances from every angle and the result he obtained has convinced him that they are good.

COURT NEWS

Sues for Partition of Estate

Sarah B. Holland is plaintiff in a partition suit filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Wednesday, naming as defendants Jephtha Griffin, William H. Griffin, Charles A. Griffin, Eudora Childs, Chester Broadly, a minor over 14 years of age, Cora Griffin and Charles Griffin, a minor over the M. Griffin; 15 per cent to Eva Holland of Bessie Griffin, (now Gee).

The petition states the plaintiff is a daughter and heir-at-law of John G. Griffin, deceased and has a right to an undivided seven-twentieths of two tracts of real estate, one consisting of 2 1-4 acres and one of 2 40-100 acres, both along Massies Creek. The petition states John G. Griffin died September 6, 1900, leaving the property to his wife, Judith Griffith, during her natural life, and at her death to be divided as follows: 30 per cent to Samuel B. Holland; 32 per cent to Jephtha Griffin; 25 per cent to Jas. M. Griffin; 15 per cent to Eva Holland. Eva Holland died before John G. Griffin and her share passed to the heirs of John G. Griffin.

Judith Griffin died September 5, 1907. Jephtha Griffin, according to the petition, has a right to seven-twentieths; William H., and Chas. A. Griffin and Eudora Childs, are entitled to three-fiftieths as the heirs of James M. Griffin, son of John G. Griffin. Chester Broadly is entitled to three-fiftieths as the heir of Eugene Broadly, daughter of James M. Griffin; Cora and Florence Griffin are entitled to three-one hundredths subject to the dower interest of Bessie Griffin, (now Gee) as heirs of Theodore Griffin, a son of James M. Griffin, and Bessie Griffin, has a dower interest of three-fiftieths. The petition was filed by Attorney L. T. Marshall.

Wants Damage for Auto Wreck

The J. A. Lang Company, entered suit in Common Pleas Court, Wednesday, against Leslie Grove, asking $151.50 alleged due for damages received to the plaintiff's Ford touring car when struck by a Stutz touring car on the Dayton pike, May 28.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, charges that the company Ford was being driven by E. W. Notts, who was exercising care, was giving more than two-thirds of the road, had his lights lit and dimmed. The petition further avers that the defendant was driving at a reckless rate of speed and running from one side of the road to the other, being negligent in running into the plaintiff's machine which was damaged to the extent of the damages asked.

Seeks Divorce after 24 Years

After being wedded for 24 years Cora Judy, through her attorney filed a suit asking for divorce from Loe Judy, with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Wednesday. The petition charges gross neglect of duty, that they are living apart now and that the defendant has threatened the plaintiff. The couple was married in Covington, Ky., August 5, 1897 and there are no children. The plaintiff wants an injunction restraining the defendant from annoying her, complete divorce, and restoration to her maiden name of Whitten.

Is Granted Divorce

Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy, Wednesday, granted Lena M. Haynes, a divorce from M. T. Haynes and restored her to her maiden name of Lena LaMar.

DECISION AND DETAILS

There is no doubt in my mind that a man who enters the game of golf will be much better off, stand better in tournaments and match play, if he is thoroughly conversant with the regulations. Of course, we have all seen the self-constituted authority on rules who is a frequent nuisance and I don't mean for my readers to acquire that sort of disposition, but know the rules so your own game will be right at least. After all golf rules, narrow down to what is right and what is wrong. I always make it my habit never to call a hole on an opponent or to accuse another of violating any rules I play to win actual strokes. Otherwise I prefer to lose for there is no thrill in winning a technical success. I try always to follow strictly the rules of the game and I expect my opponent to maintain the same standard. But if it is my misfortune to play against a man who infringes the rules—who, in blunt language is a cheater—I try to follow the old biblical injunction and turn the other cheek. A cheater will eventually rule himself out of any course.

During my experience of more than a decade of tourney I have witnessed many cases which illustrate the importance of the rules and the effect of the referee's decision during critical moments.

I once played at a big event in the East when the referee was playing the last hole. One of them hooked his shot to the boundary line. It was a debatable question, but the referee in this instance called it out and his decision lost the match for that player. I personally examined the play carefully and had I been referee I would have ruled the ball in. Golf history would have been made had the referee's decision been otherwise.

Another interesting case was the match between Travers and Warren Wood in a National Championship. An incident occurred there which made a decided difference in the outcome of the match although the act seemed small at the time. Travers sliced his ball into some ground that was being repaired. Under the rules Travers should have dropped out behind the grounds but instead he dropped it to one side. In this particular case there was a decided difference. And Travers won the match by a single hole. I have said above that I never question an opponent's play, but I am not sure that this is always a wise policy. In fact I think it is not safe to be too obliging in an important match. For example in the final round of the National Championship, played at Garden City, I met J. G. Anderson. At a certain hole there was a question as to who was away. As the official was not at hand I told my caddy to measure the distance. In doing this he accidentally moved Anderson's ball. As a result I lost a hole that up to that time seemed clearly mine.

On another occasion during a decisive part of my match with Travers in Chicago in 1912 (I cite these old cases rather than more modern ones because time has mellowed my viewpoint on them) the question of distance from the hole arose. My eye is well trained in judging such matters and I was certain that I was away, and, therefore, entitled to play first. But Travers, stepped promptly up to his ball saying "I guess I am away," and he played. That small thing might have made a big difference for by playing first Travers was in the position either of holing out and getting the psychological advantage of that fact, or having his ball stop in a position to stymie me.

So I say to my readers, know the rules and play your games according to them strictly. Expect the same standard of your opponent and if your match is of importance guard against being too accommodating as you are under no obligation to go out of your way even in small matters—which may have big results.

ARMY CUT IS ADVOCATED

Washington, June 30.—President Harding is understood to have been advised by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, and Charles Curtis, of Kansas, the party whip, to sign the Army appropriation bill, not withstanding his objections to House provisions requiring summary discharge of 70,000 men by October.

ONE OF THE LETTERS RECEIVED DURING THE CONTEST:

"In dealing with the Kennedy Groceries in the last three and one-half years, I have been especially pleased by the SERVICE, QUALITY and CLEANLINESS of these stores.

Then, again, the ORDER in which the groceries are displayed, which helps us in planning our daily menu.

The QUALITY can be relied upon as they are all well known brands and nothing but the best is bought.

The white interior of the stores, spells CLEANLINESS it self, which is one of the most important features.

No one can help but be pleased by the courteous treatment of the employees of these stores, who are all well versed in the line of goods which they are selling.

Mr. Kennedy, the manager, of the two stores has succeeded because he is working for the interest of the public and everything that the public demands has been put into these stores."

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE NERVOUS AS DAY OF FIGHT DRAWS NEAR

By JAMES J. CORBETT

New York, June 30.—With the big fight only two days off everybody is fidgety. One can feel that nervous, ominous calm before the storm.

Dempsey and Carpentier are bundles of nerves today. You can bet your life on that. They would not be two of the world's greatest boxers if they were nerveless creatures.

For this reason I have considered all along that the big fight may be over in one punch and that either man may win it. Nervous energy will drive both Dempsey and Carpentier hard during the first round and those who see the contest are very liable to see the fusties fight over staged by heavyweights. It certainly has the earmarks of such a fight.

If the fight should end in a round or so condition will not count for or against either fighter but if it should be strung out and prove fast and furious, the physical angle will be a big factor.

To be frank I did not like Dempsey's habit of knocking out his sparring partners every day. It looked to me as though the big fellow figured that was the quickest way to dispose of them and avoid going so much boxing. If such was the case he was in dire danger of going stale. I think, however, he is all right now and from reports he will be in fine fettle Saturday.

I got an angle on the sort of fight Carpentier will probably start to put up in the first round from a friend who saw the Frenchman in private. I am told he has spent practically all his training period this week in defensive sparring and footwork with both imaginary and real sparring partners working with him. To my notion this is exactly what he should do if he expects Dempsey to make a rushing affair.

Styles BY LENORE

Many full-skirted taffeta dance frocks, with semi-fitted plain bodices, have been featured this week. Sometimes the skirt opens over a lace or pleated chiffon petticoat, but whatever the design, the effect aimed at is that of simplicity and demure charm. In a Fifth Avenue shop window saw the attractive frock in the sketch, which illustrates this idea. The bodice is entirely plain in front with a straight across, slightly dipped neck finished with four rows of fine cording, and cap sleeves formed by the tiny cape shown on the back of the bodice. The color scheme is charming the rose of the

HAD NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Mrs. Ireland Permits us to Publish this Letter for the Benefit of Others Who Are in Her Condition

Warsaw, Missouri.—"For five years I was weakly, nervous and in a run-down condition. Then I had a nervous breakdown and doctors said I would never be well again. After I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was healthier, stronger, and felt better than I ever did in my life before. I can't praise the Compound enough and will recommend it to all women. You may publish this letter if you think it will help others."—Mrs. FLOYD IRELAND, R. R. 1, Warsaw, Missouri.

Nervous women are both ailing and wretched, and with a nervous breakdown all joy goes out of a woman's life. It is said that the ills peculiar to women act on the nerves like a firebrand.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming such conditions, a large number of American women who were once great sufferers from nerve troubles owe their present health and comfort to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ASIATIC CHOLERA

Cholera exists pretty much all the time in India, especially in the Delta of the Ganges, where the Mohammedan faithful are prone to bathe in that "sacred river". At intervals it becomes epidemic in various localities. In Southern China, in the Philippines and other oriental regions. For many years it has been a pretty regular Spring visitor in Russia, where it is called by the peasantry the Asiatic Guest. Its germ is the cholera vibrio and like typhoid fever, it is an ingestion infection, contracted only by taking in contaminated food and drink.

Here are the sanitary precautions that should be used during an epidemic: All persons effected, and their attendants, are isolated; strict quarantine of infected districts and houses is observed; all accumulations of filth and excreta are disinfected and removed; the bodies of those who have died of Asiatic cholera are cremated; water supplies are guarded to prevent further contamination; all the drinking water is boiled before it is used; and the patient is protected from flies by means of screens.

NERVES WILL PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN BIG BOUT SATURDAY

BY TAD.

New York, June 30.—Just before a big battle the bravest, biggest and most talented boxer is liable to have a seam of nerves that will set him down as weak as a cat. It is the few days before the big muss that get the fighter. Not only fighters but actors, orators, lovers or any of us. How many actors do you know who have flopped at the big moment?

The writer was on the stage with George Cohan one night when he was called upon for an encore and he actually forgot the lines of "Give My Regards to Broadway."

Was there ever a bigger collapse than the one pulled by Jim Jeffries at Reno. Poor Jeff's nerves went to pieces the day before that fight. He walked the floor instead of sleeping the night before wondering if daylight would ever come. Jeff was never accused of cowardice in the ring. In fact he was one of the gamest warriors the glove sentry knew, yet his nerves left him flat.

The night before the big Toledo fuss Jess Willard was awake half the time. Walt Monahan who slept in the same house with Jess heard the big fellow go down stairs at 3 a. m. to turn out a small gas jet that was burning. It seemed to bother Jess. He thought he smelled something burning. Afraid of his life he got up and put it out.

Earlier that evening the big fellow sat in the arena with Tex Rickard talking over future plans. He was just ragged with nerves.

Jack Dempsey himself is no marble statue for nerves. They get him too. The night before he boxed Brennan he went into the bathroom to wash his hands. He carefully reached up, turned on an extra light, thinking it was the faucet, and then proceeded to wash his hands with air. He yelled to Teddy Hayes, telling him the water was turned off. His mind was on Brennan too much.

John L. Sullivan, you know usually licked his man with a few glaring looks. All John ever wanted as an edge was a good face to take look at a bloke.

The night he met Jim Corbett, however, he was stumped. Corbett, knowing his tricks hopped into the ring wearing a straw hat. He bowed and audience, paying no more attention to yelled to imaginary guys in the Sullivan than if the latter had been a dummy. This proceeding got Sullivan's nanny.

Sullivan was wild, just what Corbett wanted.

Watch for some goat getters Saturday. They're coming, sure.

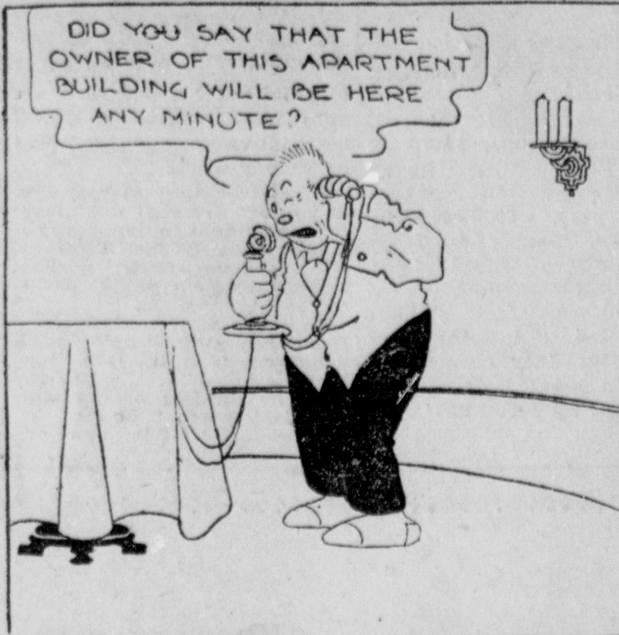

WOMAN NAMED ON COMMITTEE IS FIRST TO GET POSITION

For the first time in history, a woman has been appointed to membership on the Greene County Soldiers' Relief Committee.

When Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy recently appointed the committee for the coming year, he named Mrs. C. W. Linkhart to position on the board, she being the first woman to ever receive such an appointment.

The other members of the committee are John Hedges of this city and E. J. Williamson, of Beaver-creek, both of whom were reappointed. The committee meets once a month, and passes on requests and fixes relief to be given soldiers and their widows by the county.

Until the enfranchisement of women they were not eligible to serve on the committee, which distinguishes Mrs. Linkhart as the first woman to receive such an appointment.

J. E. Cain, of Dayton, broke one hundred birds and hung up a perfect score in the special 100-bird shoot held by the Gun Club of the Xenia Country Club, Wednesday.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

Everybody's Baby—Mahogany

"I declare," said a young mother, "I spend as much time on my old mahogany furniture as I do on the baby."

This statement is three-quarters true. Well-kept mahogany does require an astonishing amount of care. But to a lover of mahogany this trouble is well worth taking.

The delicate, satiny surface on a fine old piece of mahogany is obtained only by constant rubbing. There is no bottled furniture polish that can do the work alone; elbow "grease" is the best polish.

To begin with, mahogany must be kept clean. I know of housewives who try to polish their mahogany when it is dirty! They would not start to polish a dirty floor yet they do not hesitate to do this with a rare old piece of furniture. Perhaps they do not realize that some of the dust deposits adhere to their furniture—no matter how well or how frequently a piece is dusted—and that the furniture should be cleaned every two or three months as well as polished.

If your piece of mahogany has been cleaned recently, all you need do to clean it again is to wipe it with a damp cloth and then rub it well with a clean flannel, taking care to rub with the grain of the wood. Then proceed to polish.

If, however, your piece of mahogany hasn't been washed clean in many a day, then you must give it a more thorough cleansing: Dip a soft, dry cloth into paraffine oil and go over the wood with this, making the surface quite wet; then go over the wood at once with a woolen cloth dipped in strong soap suds and use a good deal of pressure as you wash the wood; wipe it quite dry before polishing.

Now that we have cleaned the mahogany piece, we can think of polishing it. The first step is to put 1 pint of paraffine oil and 1-2 pint of turpentine into a bottle and shake well. Then go over the cleaned wood with a soft cloth wet with this mixture. Let it stand on the mahogany a while before beginning to rub. Then take a dry, clean cloth of either cotton or line and rub briskly—again

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER—SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

CHAPTER 81.

Even yet that summer spent in the country is like a dreadful nightmare to me. There is no use in recording the daily bickerings, the disagreements. Keith was so busy, at least he said so, that often he remained in town during the week, sleeping at the club, and only coming down the week end. I really suffered. Not only was I unhappy in my environment, but I knew that Mrs. De Lisle had also remained in town, contrary to her usual custom. When talking with Margaret she had said:

"I never have remained in town. But it is so cool and there are the roof gardens, the Inns where one can motor for dinner, and other pleasures. I shall try it. If I don't like it I'll come down and find a place near you."

To me who knew of her intimacy with Keith, an intimacy that even to myself I called "friendship," it was torture to know she was where he could—and did as I found out—spend his evenings with her.

Had I been happier in my own environment perhaps I should not have so constantly dwelt upon this intimacy, but unhappy, alone, away from Erma, I had no outlet for my misery, so self-pity, worry, and anxious, unpleasant thoughts took up much of my time.

We were in mourning for mother so could not take part in the social affairs of the summer colony. Gloria and Irene were the only members of the family who did so, and their pleasures were simple outdoor childish pleasures. I often longed to join them, but if I so much as mentioned doing anything, Margaret accused me of pretending I cared for Mother Sanderson so she would leave me something.

About the middle of August, Tom Benedict came down to the country club, which was near us, for his vacation. He called, of course. I was awfully glad to see him, and he knew passed us. They made a re-knew it. Margaret said I "gushed" like a school girl.

After Tom came down I was not quite so miserable, simply because I was not quite so lonely. I had not so many hours to think and fret. He used to meet me when I took my long morning walks—Margaret monopolized the car in the country as in town, and walking had been my only exercise. I had thought of buying a saddle horse or hiring one with a part of the money in the bank, but something held me back and seemed to tell me I would need it all. So each morning after June was dressed and attended to, I left her with the nurse and wandered off by myself nursing my unhappiness until the beauty of the day or the exercise would cheer me.

It was nice to have a companion. This was all that was in my mind as day after day Tom Benedict met me and we sauntered along the country roads, or found a patch of woods and rested under the trees.

Naturally we were observed.

"I hear you have been walking with Tom Benedict lately," Margaret said one morning as I was leaving the house.

"Yes?"

"People will talk, and I am sure Keith would be very angry if he knew."

"Then let him come down and walk with me himself!" I replied.

"You know he is busy."

"Not too busy to take others out even in business hours." Tom had told me only the day before that he had met Keith several times motoring with Alice De Lisle, and also had seen them at road houses in the country about New York.

I said no more but hurried away, followed by her gasp of astonishment. Never had I before allowed her to see that I knew anything of Keith's movements as they applied to the time spent with Mrs. De Lisle. This is the way Tom came to tell me.

We were walking along a lovely stretch of road, and some people he knew passed us. They made a remark about his being with his sweetheart that brought the blood to my cheeks. After the car had turned a bend in the road I said:

"I guess we'd better not walk together anymore."

"Oh, please, Mrs. Sanderson, Vera! Don't let a silly remark from careless people who do not know you spoil your delightful morning walks."

"But I am married, you know," I replied primly.

"Yes, but your husband does not deny himself all pleasure, and he is married too, isn't he?" We both laughed at his query, but as I still objected, and said that Keith would not like it if anyone should gossip about me, Tom seemed to lose his patience and boyishly blurted out the things he knew—which he said everyone in town knew.

"Very well, we will continue our walks," I told him, and for the remainder of that morning I had been feverishly gay.

Keith was having a good time why shouldn't I? What was sauce for the Gander should be sauce for the Goose.

Tomorrow—Tom Sees Much of Vera.

AN ADVERTISEMENT HELPED HER

Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough it bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin but now she is as fat as ever." Sayre & Hemphill.
